Two State Candidates Campaign in Our Area

Paterson Takes Rocky to Task

By HUGH REYNOLDS

NEW PALTZ

Basil A. Paterson, the Democrat-Liberal candidate for lieutenant governor, opened his remarks to the Highland-New Paltz Rotary Club Friday with praise for the administration at New Paltz College and then zeroed in on the Rockefeller Administration.

Paterson, a Harlem state senator running with gubernatorial candidate Arthur Goldberg, addressed the Rotary Club at a luncheon at Dominick's Restaurant. He opened by "publicly expressing" his admiration for the administration at New Paltz for its "handling of the situation at the college after the tragedy at Kent State this spring."

Then, stating he was "weary of making speeches," he threw the program open to questions from the floor.

The first question asked of Paterson, a Negro, was whether he felt his election would "minimize racial tensions" in New York.

"I don't think it's a question of black against white or upstate New York against New York City," he answered. "We're not going to make it by ourselves. If we don't understand that we need each other it won't make any difference who is elected."

The candidate then fielded a question on his running mate's campaigning ability. "I question statements that Arthur Goldberg has no charisma. We almost got trampled when we were campaigning in New York City."

Then, leading into his lengthy attack on Gov. Rockefeller, Paterson said, "Arthur Goldberg is the most honest man I've ever seen in politics. He told (Democratic) party leaders in Queens and Kings (Counties) that he would not be issuing patronage. The one thing we can offer you is candor."

He then accused Rockefeller of "playing politics" with the drug problem. He mentioned the governor's voluntary commitment of addicts legislation in 1962. "And when that didn't work, he came up with a mandatory commitment act in 1966. Note the years" (election years).

He charged that "only 141 addicts have had their dependency arrested (apparently since 1966) at a cost of $250 million. The money doesn't bother me; the lack of honesty does."

He spoke of Rockefeller's recent meeting with Attorney General John N. Mitchell in Washington to discuss ways of cutting off the foreign import of drugs. "It took him (Rockefeller) 12 years to find out where it's coming from," he said.

"When Rockefeller came in office (1959) there were less than 20,000 addicts. Now there's more than 200,000. The disease is contagious. One infects another." Then, referring to a recent survey in suburban Nassau County, which he said showed that while the age of addicts was headed downward, their educational level was headed upward, statistically: "It's everybody's children, now. The only way to help your children is to help your friends' children."

Nixon campaigns in four states. Story on page 3.

Then, charging that it takes 18 to 24 months for an addict to be admitted to a treatment center, Paterson pledged (if elected) "by June 1, 1971, any addict seeking treatment will get treatment."

Terming New York State "the nation's drug capital," Paterson predicted, "no matter who is elected, you'll see drastic changes (in the treatment of the drug problem). The people will demand it."

Paterson also attacked the governor on pollution: "I've been all over this state during this campaign and from the air our rivers, lakes and streams look beautiful. But don't go near the water."

The governor came under attack for his construction program: "Don't build buildings that you call offices. Build buildings that you call homes."

The candidate made only brief mention of his opponent, Malcolm Wilson, stating, "The people haven't seen Wilson. They don't know him and he's been in office for 12 years." He allowed that Wilson was a qualified man but accused the governor of ignoring him. "This is a complex society. We need every person we elect functioning."

EDWARD V. REGAN

Regan Critical of Levitt Myth

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

"The odds makers and the power brokers have only one vote each . . . If they try to write me off, they're writing you off too," Edward V. "Ned" Regan, Republican candidate for state comptroller, told a group of Republicans at their Kingston Headquarters on Broadway early Friday morning.

The Erie County lawyer, who once won an upset victory, taking a Buffalo Council seat in two-to-one Democratic territory, blamed the GOP for "canonizing" his opponent Democrat Arthur Levitt who has been comptroller for 16 years.

"We have lived with the myth that he is the watchdog of the state treasury and, as the myth has increased, so have the votes for him," Regan explained.

News of area political candidates. See page 9.

Actually, he declared, "the comptroller's office has gone to sleep."

Regan said he reached that conclusion through extensive research into every report ever to have come out of Levitt's office.

He found that the state, county, town and village books of the state are audited every four years instead of two as had been the practice previously.

"He's simply not doing the job," Regan said, adding that if he were comptroller he would immediately speed up auditing, update procedures and "get rid of archaic practices. Mississippi, Oregon and New York are the only states who still operate under 1830 version of county procedures."

"I'd change that immediately," he said. Introduced by Ulster County Republican Chairman Albert Spada, Regan also spoke of his desire to see greater federal revenue sharing. New York now gets back about eleven cents out of every tax dollar, he explained. I think it should be closer to 25 per cent . . . the more the better.

Saying that real property taxes are becoming increasingly unfair because the land owners are no longer exclusively wealthy individuals. In fact, he said, the rich are now the apartment dwellers. "The whole system has completely flipped. Owning property is no longer a true measure of wealth for sometimes a man's home is his only asset."

Tax on income is the only fair way with a percentage returned to the community, he concluded.

"And, the State Comptroller is the key to the solution."

Regan claimed Levitt has never thought in terms of such things as reform and revenue sharing. What Levitt does know, he said, is that he has an opponent and is finally having to campaign for the first time since 1958.

Pressing his attack on the Democrat incumbent, he told of press releases issued by Levitt's office over the years that "are identical year after year." Nothing more has therefore been accomplished, Regan reasoned.

Regan also criticized his opponent for his (Levitt's) recent attack on the handling of finances in the student government fund at the State University College at New Paltz.

Regan pointed out that Levitt had sent a directive to the college in 1968 which stated that the student government fund was to be run by the students, not the administration. "He completely reversed himself this summer by criticizing the college administration for failing to exercise control over the student government fund." Regan charged. Regan added that while he had been on "hundreds of college campuses" talking with students, Levitt had never been to one.

Among those who turned out to meet and greet the Buffalo Law School graduate were Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, Republican-Conservative candidate for Supreme Court Justice John L. Larkin; Republican-Conservative candidate for district attorney Francis J. Vogt; County Treasurer Fred H. DuBois, Vincent J. and Vincent J. Andretta Jr., personal friends of Regan; Vice Chairman Mrs. Sally Brinnier, County Legislators Eugene Noe and Melvin Mones, who is also Republican City Chairman. Among the women who planned the reception were Mrs. Lillian Salpatus, Mrs. Adele Longendyke and Mrs. Hilda Krum.

Canadian Crisis Still on, More Than 250 Arrested

OTTAWA (AP) — Armed with combat weapons and wartime powers, thousands of policemen and soldiers swarmed over Quebec today in search of two kidnapped officials and their abductors. More than 250 persons were arrested Friday.

There was no word on the fate of the hostages, British Labor Commissioner James Cross and provincial Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau told the House of Commons he had invoked the War Measures Act Friday "with deep regret" after Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa and Montreal officials told him there was "apprehended insurrection" in the province and that there was a danger of violence and terrorist intimidation.

The term "apprehended insurrection" was a reference to language in the War Measures Act. The World War I law, being used for the first time since World War II, stipulates that its provisions may be invoked when there is "conclusive evidence that war, invasion, or insurrection, real or apprehended, exists."

It sets penalties of five years in prison and $5,000 fines for persons convicted under it, with no bail or release permitted unless authorized by the justice minister.

Trudeau alleged that "all extraordinary powers will be withdrawn as soon as it has been demonstrated that there is a cessation of the violence which made necessary their introduction."

He added that there is a "clear understanding" that this will be no later than April 30, 1971.

Trudeau's primary target is the Quebec Liberation Front, which kidnapped Cross and Laporte to gain freedom for 23 persons convicted or awaiting trial for terrorist activities. The government has refused this and other demands made by the kidnapers, although its last offer before the terrorists broke off negotiations Friday morning was to seek parole for five of the 23.

The front, known by its French initials FLQ, has sought since 1963 to make Quebec a separate, French-speaking nation. Until Cross was kidnapped Oct. 5, its primary tactic had been bombing and similar acts against targets in Montreal. The prime minister's proclamation Friday officially outlawed the FLQ.

In a nationwide television and radio broadcast Friday night, Trudeau said assumption of the emergency powers was "distasteful" but that Canadian law "as it stands is simply not adequate to deal with systematic terrorism."

He said in view of the amount of explosives and arms the terrorists have, their threat "is out of proportion to their numbers." The 13,000 police and an undisclosed number of troops uncovered firearms caches and FLQ literature in sweeps through Montreal, Canada's largest city, and other Quebec cities.

Suspected members of the FLQ or its sympathizers may now be arrested on suspicion without warrants. Inspector Pierre Laforet of the Montreal police banned distribution or ownership of pamphlets, tracts or "other political documents."

The War Measures Act had been invoked twice previously, during the world wars. It allows the government—without prior consultation with Parliament—to make laws governing arrest, deportation, censorship or anything else it "deems necessary for the security, defense, peace, order and welfare of Canada."

In Quebec, all provincial police have been mobilized under a single commander.

Dutchess Motorist Killed In Town of Saugerties Crash

By JON POWERS

A fiery, two-car head-on collision on Route 9W in the Town of Saugerties early this morning claimed the life of a 23-year-old Red Hook man and resulted in minor injuries to a Saugerties man, according to State Police from the Lake Katrine barracks.

John T. Brown of 18 Smith Street, Red Hook, was pronounced dead on arrival at Benedictine Hospital. His death was the 40th registered on Ulster County highways this year and the fourth on the county portion of Route 9W. The 40th highway fatality of 1969 occurred Oct. 28. Nine persons lost their lives on Route 9W during that year.

According to troopers, Brown was traveling south on the highway near Glenier Falls in the Town of Saugerties when his auto crossed over the double line into the northbound lane. The auto, a late model station wagon, then collided head-on with a car operated by Richard Schuman, 45, of Burt Street, Saugerties. Police added that Schuman drove onto the right shoulder of the road to avoid the oncoming vehicle but could not avert the collision.

Brown was pronounced dead on arrival at Benedictine. Cause of his death is pending an autopsy.

Brown's auto, police reported, burst into flames after the impact of the collision, with Brown, unconscious, trapped inside. A Scarselli and W. T. Wilson with passing truck driver, identified as Edgar LaPierre of Platte-kill, arrived at the scene several minutes after the fatal crash and pulled Brown out of the burning vehicle. State Police arrived minutes later and extinguished the blaze and administered emergency first aid to both Brown and Schuman.

In addition to State Police from Lake Katrine, Ulster County sheriff's deputies were at the scene of the crash. Investigating troopers were A. J. Scarselli and W. T. Wilson with Donald Polcastro assisting from the Sheriff's Department.

Huge Upstate Drug Raid, 50 Jailed, 30 Are Sought

BUFFALO (AP) — More than 50 suspected narcotics peddlers were in jail, and almost 50 more were being sought today in one of the largest series of drug raids in the state's history. Almost 150 law enforcement officers, arrested 53 persons in Erie County on charges of sale and possession of a dangerous drug Friday night. The officers were armed with 101 indictments, warrants handed down earlier in the day by a county grand jury.

The 101 persons included a youth accused of selling drugs to county Sheriff Michael Amico twice last February on the State University at Buffalo campus.

Amico said the youth told him: "Don't worry about the pigs. We do this every day; there's no problem."

Amico said the roundup of pushers was the result of eight months of undercover investigation. He said Deputy Charles R. Mecca, one of the undercover men, "made 40 per cent of the buys in which our department spent almost $7,000."

Amico said Mecca was once chased for several blocks by university students after being recognized. Another time, Amico said, Mecca had to stand in line in the parking lot of a suburban shopping plaza to make a narcotics purchase.

"The plaza was wide open," Mecca said. "The entire gamut of drugs could be purchased there."

Among those arrested were two youths under 16. Both, charged with selling drugs, were petitioned to family court. One of them, a 13-year-old, was accused of peddling hashish.

Deputies said they seized large quantities of drugs and weapons during the raid. They said the weapons included firearms, knives, clubs, and spikes. None of these arrested carrying weapons attempted to resist, deputies added.

Nixon Does Some Heavy Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, expanding his campaign travel schedule almost daily and enlisting his family in the Republican cause, flew into Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin today. Already scheduled for a five-state campaign swing next Monday and Tuesday—in Ohio, North Dakota, Missouri, Tennessee and Indiana—Nixon added a North Carolina stop. He had announced plans to campaign Oct. 28 in Texas, and said Friday he will go to Illinois and Minnesota on the 29th.

Whereas just two days ago the White House had been talking in terms of vote-seeking trips to 16 or 17 states, Nixon aides now speak of spending a full week or more campaigning in 18 to 20 states. Nixon's first stop today was the airport at Burlington, Vt., for a rally aimed at boosting the re-election chances of Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty who faces a strong challenge from former Democratic Gov. Philip H. Hoff. Next state on the President's schedule for the day was New Jersey, with stops at airports in

Newark and Teterboro and a GOP conclave at Ocean Grove. In a crucial New Jersey race, Democratic Sen. Harrison A. Williams is facing Nelson Gross, the state's former GOP chairman. The chief executive resigned himself to spending much of the day aboard helicopters, flying via that contrivance all the way from Newark to each of two stops planned for Pennsylvania. The first stop in Pennsylvania will be at the airport in Lancaster, followed by an appearance at the airport in Middletown. Since Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of that state seems virtually assured of re-election, Nixon's attention will center on the governorship contest between Republican Lt. Gov. Raymond Broderick and Democrat Milton Schapp. From Middletown, Nixon flies to Green Bay, Wis., for an evening testimonial reception for Bart Starr who isn't running for anything except a few more seasons as quarterback of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League. While in Wisconsin, however, Nixon is expected to say a word or two against the re-election bid of Democratic Sen. William Proxmire. While the President is covering nine states in a four-day period, his wife scheduled campaign stops in Maryland today, and in Michigan, Minnesota and Nevada on Monday and Tuesday. Julie and David Eisenhower, daughter and son-in-law of the Nixons, were to attend a reception for GOP campaign workers in St. Louis today. The elder Nixon daughter, Tricia, campaigned last week for Minnesota Republican senatorial nominee Clark MacGregor.

New U.S. Troop Reductions in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. Command announced today new American troop reductions numbering nearly 2,000 men. Other sources said the South Vietnamese army is planning a new offensive into Cambodia to ensure an effective overall U.S. withdrawal program. The command said two infantry battalions from the 4th Division, based in the central highlands, have been withdrawn from combat and will be inactivated in ceremonies at Ft. Lewis, Wash. They are the 2nd Battalion, 35th Infantry, 1st Brigade, and the 2nd Battalion (Mechanized), 8th Infantry, 2nd Brigade. The 1st and 2nd Brigades of the 4th Infantry Division are being deactivated as part of President Nixon's fifth round of troop withdrawals. In the deactivated units, only those men who have completed their tours will return home. Those who have a significant part of their one year tour remaining will be assigned to other units still active in Vietnam. The U.S. Command also announced the deactivation of the war dog detachment of the 4th Division. The detachment is made up of about 80 handlers and their dogs.

Earlier, informed sources said South Vietnamese forces are planning new offensives in Cambodia and will have some support from American bombers. The aim is to counter a North Vietnamese buildup during the dry season, which has just begun, and to keep the enemy away from the interior of South Vietnam to allow the withdrawal of American troops with minimum casualties. A number of U.S. units, including the 25th Infantry Division, are positioned in the Saigon region for redeployment by Christmas as part of President

Nixon's latest cutback of 40,000 troops to be made by Dec. 31. One top-ranking South Vietnamese field commander said he was waiting for the height of the dry season "to launch deeper and larger operations into Cambodia." "Our armor is restricted until the roads are entirely dry," he said. With a limited number of helicopters, the South Vietnamese must rely on armored personnel carriers to move their forces deep into Cambodia and give them mobility. Other sources said U. S. B52 bombers and smaller tactical fighter-bombers would be used to soften up certain areas for the South Vietnamese. Hanoi has begun its dry-season push of war materials down the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos to support new offensives in Cambodia and South Vietnam. At last report, the South Vietnamese had about 10,000 troops operating inside Cambodia, mostly along North Vietnamese supply routes east of the Mekong River. The U.S. Command has launched a massive aerial campaign in Laos in efforts to disrupt Hanoi's supply pipeline. For the ninth consecutive day, all of the B52 strikes allocated for Indochina were concentrated today along the trail network. Up to 30 of the giant bombers, each carrying as much as 30 tons of bombs, took part. Light battlefield action was reported. Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division clashed briefly with North Vietnamese forces 65 miles northeast of Saigon. Three enemy troops and two Americans were reported killed and four U.S. troops wounded. The Cambodian command in Phnom Penh reported numerous harassing attacks but a spokesman said the battlefield lull in Cambodia appeared to be continuing for a sixth day.

STOCKYARDS CLOSING—After 105 years of operation the Chicago stockyards—once the world's largest—will be closed, officials of the Union Stock Yard and Transit Co. announced yesterday. The empty pens in the photo indicate the decline of cattle receipts for the yards, which caused the firm to stop handling cattle and to close the stockyards. (UPI TELE- PHOTO)

'Shopping Cart' Goes on Next Moon Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Apollo 14 astronauts will go about the moon collecting rock samples next February much as the housewife cruises a grocery store with her shopping cart. In fact, the space ship will carry along a fancy version of such a cart.

It's been called everything from a wheelbarrow and a ricksha to names unprintable, astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell said Friday as he showed off the vehicle for the first time. Mitchell is lunar module pilot for the launch scheduled Jan. 31. The spacecraft commander will be Alan B. Shepard, America's first man in space. Stuart A. Roosa, a space rookie, will be command module pilot. Officially the cart is a modular equipment transporter. More familiarly, it's known as a MET, like the New York baseball team.

It's a gadgeteer's dream with a place for everything a boy scout or moon explorer needs: a pocket here for a sample collector, a latch there for a shovel, a fastener for a map. And mounted on top is a camera. The works fold up for storage in the lunar module ascent stage equipment bay. The idea is to save astronauts Shepard and Mitchell the trouble of carrying the equipment. Even the handle is designed so the astronaut doesn't have to curl his gloved fingers around it. "A squeezing operation gets tiring," Mitchell explained. He said the Apollo 14 crew would like to bring back 60 or 70 pounds of lunar material, but Apollo 14 command ship is being modified to avoid such mishaps. "We will work quickly to get a larger amount of samples and moon walks of up to 5 hours, 15 minutes each," Mitchell said. He would be folly to waste the time available to us trying to make field determinations. The Apollo 14 flight is planned to carry out the same objectives as Apollo 13, which had to be aborted after an explosion. The feet high.

Apollo 14 will land in the highland areas of Fra Mauro and the astronauts will have two moon walks of up to 5 hours, 15 minutes each. Mitchell said he and Shepard will try to extend their stay time on the surface as much as possible and they'll also try to climb to the rim of Cone crater, thought to be 400 feet high.

Air Base Turned Over to MTA

NEW YORK (UPI)—With a smiling Governor Rockefeller looking on, the deed for 1,590 acres of Stewart Air Force Base in Newburgh was turned over Friday to the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Signing for the federal government's General Services Administration was Gerald J. Turanski and for the MTA, William J. Ronan, its chairman.

According to the governor's office, between 200 and 300 flight operations are being logged daily at Stewart, which is about 60 miles from New York City. Plans now are for Stewart to handle general aviation but not scheduled flights. Ronan said that it would be a good airport for cargo and that some cargo, including cattle for Brazil, had already been shipped from the site. It is also hoped that Stewart will alleviate the congestion at the three major metropolitan area airports. The federal government will keep 532 acres for the use of the military academy at West Point. Rockefeller said of the transfer that the "speed is unique and really quite a record." Present at the signing in the governor's office was Louis Mills, the Orange County executive.

Ronan said that experiments with self-propelled gas turbine cars were being carried out to determine their feasibility in transferring freight and people between Newburgh to the metropolitan area. He also said there was money available to build a rail spur into the air base from the Erie Lackawanna Railroad.

Tough Weekend for Pros

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles at Green Bay, Dallas at Minnesota and Detroit at Cleveland ... this is the week they separate the men from the boys, and maybe a few heads from a few shoulders in the National Football League.

Green Bay, Minnesota and Detroit are tied for the top in the bone-cracking Central Division of the National Football Conference, while Los Angeles, Dallas and Cleveland have at least a share of the lead in three other divisions of the NFL and the American Conference.

Five other teams—Baltimore, Miami, Denver, St. Louis and San Francisco also will be trying to retain a share of some division lead.

It's pretty safe to say there won't be 11 leaders by Tuesday morning. That doesn't make it the best of weeks to come off the bench to fill in for the departed Jack Hand-packer. But, starting off at 0-0, let's see if we can come out in one piece. Here goes:

SUNDAY

Los Angeles 31, Green Bay 14—The Packers couldn't have picked a worse time to invite the Rams to Green Bay for a football game. Smarting from a 20-6 loss to San Francisco last week, the Rams offense will be out to make amends, and it won't have Packers injured linebacker Dave Robinson to trouble it. But there will be a lot of head-knocking anyway.

Minnesota 17, Dallas 10—Dallas produced a shutout last week, and it might take another one unless Craig Morton can get the Cowboys' offense untracked. He couldn't pick a tougher team to try against, particularly as the Vikings want that first victory in six tries against Dallas. A rugged defensive struggle.

Detroit 31, Cleveland 21—Detroit was probably looking ahead to this one when it was beaten by Washington last week. Bill Munson and returning Mel Farr get the offense back on the beam, while Alex Karras leads that vicious front four against Bill Nelsen and his troublesome knees.

Jets to Win

New York Jets 30, Baltimore 24—Baltimore might want revenge from that Super Bowl loss, but the Jets need the victory more. And Joe Namath is expected to have back his top targets, George Sauer and Don Maynard, enabling him to score more points than his defensive secondary gives up.

Buffalo 23, Miami 20—O. J. Simpson and Dennis Shaw catch the Dolphins looking back to their big victory over the Jets last Sunday and looking ahead to their big game against Cleveland next Sunday.

Atlanta 21, Denver 17—Norm Van Brocklin isn't likely to take last week's shutout loss to Dallas sitting down, and that means the Falcons should be flying high. Anyway, first place was becoming too much of a burden for the Broncos.

St. Louis 34, Philadelphia 17—Cardinals usually do well against the Eagles, and this time should be no different with Philadelphia finishing the day as the NFL's only winless team. Jim Hart-Jackie Smith bound for a field day.

New Orleans 28, San Francisco 24—Upset special. If Bill Kilmer is to have a good day, it would be against his former mates, who might well still be celebrating last week's stunner over the Rams. Last year it was Saints 43-38. Looking for more of the same.

Kansas City 20, Cincinnati 10—The Chiefs have trouble against this club, but Len Dawson is back and the Bengals gave their best last week against Cleveland.

Houston Tabbed

Houston 13, Pittsburgh 10—Steelers finally tasted success last week, but still need more offense, particularly against tough Oilers defense. Houston, possibly minus Charley Johnson, might have trouble scoring, too, against rugged Steelers.

San Diego 17, Chicago 13—Bears give it another good try without Gale Sayers, but how far can defense carry a team? Chargers want that first victory.

Boston 14, New York Giants 10—Giants barely got by Eagles last week, and you can be certain Joe Kapp will make Boston tougher to beat.

Monday Night

Oakland 34, Washington 24—Daryle Lamonica and Sonny Jurgensen give the television watchers a treat, but Redskins will have trouble matching last week's performance against Detroit, while Raiders are on the upswing after dropping Denver.

Rick Mount Scores 12

By United Press International
Rick Mount would like to believe his 12 points were the margin of victory for Indiana Friday night.

In a way they were. Mount's field goal early in the second period put the Pacers ahead for good at 33-32 and the American Basketball Association champions went on to defeat the Denver Rockets, 115-103—the margin of Mount's 12-point contribution.

The young Purdue All American had plenty of support as five other Pacers hit in double figures, with Bob Netolicky and Billy Keller each scoring 19 points to pace the Indiana attack.

Freddie Lewis tallied 18 points for the Pacers. Mel Daniels scored 17 and Roger Brown added 10.

The New York Nets won their first game of the season as Sonny Dove scored 26 points toward a 105-92 decision over the Floridians in the only other scheduled game. Mac Calvin led the losers with 23 points.

Bruins Top Seals

INGLEWOOD (UPI) — The game was a mismatch from the start.

"We were in control the whole time," goaltender Gary Cheevers said Friday night after he and the rest of the proud Boston Bruins thoroughly outshined the Oakland Seals 5-1.

The Seals, suffering their third National Hockey League defeat without a victory, have the good fortune of finally getting to play a team from the weaker Western Division. They face the Los Angeles Kings tonight in The Forum.

Ambitious Carol Vadnais and tough defenseman Wayne Mulin were among the few bright spots for the Seals, who ruined a home opener for a sellout crowd of 12,089 at the Oakland Coliseum. At least 3,000 fans were turned away.

Vadnais saw more ice time than any other Oakland player. He initiated several offensive flourishes and turned in a steady forechecking game in addition to manning his own position on the backline. He also squared off a couple of times with Bruin superstar Phil Esposito.

"There was no grudge between us," Esposito said afterward. "Vadnais plays the game the way he sees fit and so do I."

Esposito, a smooth centerman who holds the NHL single season scoring record, ramed home one goal and assisted on three others against Oakland. Bobby Orr began defense of his NHL scoring title of last season by netting his initial pair of tallies of the 1970-71 campaign.

Wayne Cashman and Johnny Bucyk also scored for Boston. The Bruins ran up a quick 2-0 lead until the Seals threatened with a strong second period showing. Dennis Hextall clin-

Kickers Play Point Squad

MORGAN HILL Kingston's Sport Club will try to push their way out of the Premier Division South cellar tomorrow when they meet fifth-place College Point at Oehler's Soccer Stadium.

Game time is 2:30 p.m. with a reserve team game set for 12:45 p.m.

The locals currently stand one point behind College Point in the standings. Neither team has won any of its four games but College Point has two ties to Kingston's one.

Kingston will be a stronger team physically than it was last week when they battled the Bavarians to a 1-1 deadlock. Manager Oskar Benzenhofer expects to have Henry Ingber and Olaf Weber back from the injured list. Also set to return is former club standout Tony Fitzharris.

College Point's most recent outing resulted in a 3-0 loss to Passaic.

Kingston has beaten College Point four times out of four since 1965.

Bowling Scores

GENE MEYER turned in the season's sixth high triple with a 675 in the Woodstock Major League. His high game was 254.

CORA MARTIN had a fine 201-571 in the Early Bird League. Helen Tompkins registered a 502.

JIMMY LEE and CHARLES BOUGHTON paced Petersen's Merchants play. Jimmy rolled an excellent 248 solo while Charles put together games of 198-205-214 for a 617 triple.

Schaller's Automotive hit the team highs of 925-2611.

MARIE CHRISTIANA led the field in the Classic Bowlerettes action with a 524 series.

ANNELIESE KIME pounded a 201-572 in the Sawyer Women's division. Thornton's Starlets were the top team recording 803-2276.

CHARLES MANFRO handled all challenges in the Miderama League with 618. Hank Yockman had a solo high of 220. Utica Club took single team high of 936 while triple honors went to Spartan Pools with 2613.

BETTY ANN EATON and KATHY DE CICCIO, two of the season's top stars, were the top rollers in the Thursday afternoon get-together. The former had the high triple of 505 while the latter just missed with 503. Linda Baxter's 198 solo was tops in that department.

BOB MARKLE rolled games of 225-210 enroute to a 603 in Mannie's Barber Shop activity. Curt North had the best one game effort, a 231. Team highs were burned by Kingston Oil Supply with 948-2650.

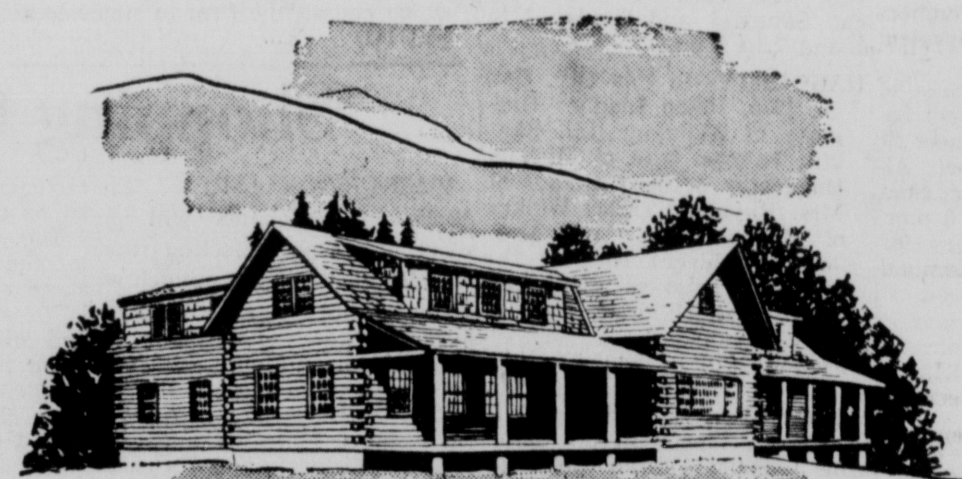

WALLY PETERS sparked the Pioneer Mixed League with 581. Sam Wilson's 223 single was tops there. The women were fronted by Henrietta Wilson's 510 and Alberta Longendyke's 501 while Jo Ann Maxwell turned in a 180 single.

LEE GAYLOG knocked down 459 pins in IBM Rainbow play. Joan Kendall computed the 178 single that was number one for the night.

EVELYN GROSS blasted a 219-543 in the Friendship League. Marie Bechtold had a 508.

President Will Be on Hand to Honor Starr

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—President Nixon will be joined by Defense Secretary Melvin Laird in the extraordinary tribute to Green Bay Packers quarterback Bart Starr Saturday night at the Brown County Arena.

The President will fly in on Air Force One early Saturday night, the exact time not disclosed for security reasons.

Laird will be with him. Nixon is to leave later that night, but Laird will remain to represent him at the Packers-Los Angeles Rams game Sunday.

There will be a halftime tribute to Starr.

Nixon will be met at the airport by Gov. Knowles, Rep. John Byrnes of Green Bay, Lt. Gov. Jack Olson and John Erickson, the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate. Olson is the GOP candidate for governor.

Nixon's trip here is the windup of a whirlwind political swing through several states Saturday on behalf of Republican candidates. Besides giving a boost to candidates here, he is repaying Starr for his spirited campaigning on his behalf in 1968.

Democrat, said he would pay his respects to Starr early, and campaign for the Rev. Robert Cornell, candidate for 8th district congress.

A spokesman for a small group of college students here said it would stage anti-war demonstration at the airport. The students are from St. Norbert and U of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Nixon will lead a motorcade to the Arena, and sponsors of the fete have asked spectators and citizens along the last few blocks to light candles, the exact motorcade route was not disclosed for security reasons. A capacity crowd of more than 6,000 persons is expected. Two free tickets per person were distributed.

The speaker's platform will be crammed with dignitaries. Besides Nixon and Laird, there will be Knowles, Byrnes, Pete Rozelle, the pro football commissioner; Dominic Olejniczak, president of the Packers; Mrs. Starr and her two sons, Bart Jr., and Bret, and Starr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Starr, and others.

Starr is in his 15th season, having led the Packers to five world titles, and two Super Bowl victories since 1961 under the late Vince Lombardi.

Members of the Packers' 1962 team will be there, and retired defensive all-pro tackle Henry Jordan will be the master of ceremonies Saturday night. The 1962 team is considered one of Green Bay's greatest.

Hundreds of letters and a 100-yard telegram will be presented to Starr at the halftime festivities.

Bob Lanier Stars

By United Press International
The Detroit Pistons hoped Bob Lanier would lift them out of the cellar. Now they're seriously talking about the National Basketball Association championship.

Lanier, the No. 1 draft choice from St. Bonaventure, scored 10 of his 19 points in the second period Friday night to lead the Pistons to a 120-106 victory over the San Francisco Warriors.

The victory was the second without a loss for Detroit, which finished with the worst record in the NBA's Eastern Division last season.

In other NBA action Friday night, Portland beat Cleveland 115-112. Los Angeles edged Chicago 106-102 and Philadelphia downed San Diego 127-119.

Pistons No. 1

The Pistons trailed 29-28 in the second period when the 6-foot-11 Lanier replaced Otto Moore at center and quickly hit two jump shots to boost Detroit to a 32-29 lead. Detroit raced to a 56-46 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way.

The victory gave the Pistons undisputed possession of first place in the Midwest Division. Dave Bing led Detroit's scorers with 27 points while Jerry Lucas had 31 for the Warriors.

Jim Barnett and Geoff Petrie rallied Portland in the last 31 minutes to give the Trail Blazers their triumph over Cleveland in a battle of expansion teams.

Portland Wins Debut

Barnett had 31 points and Petrie, the Blazers' No. 1 draft choice from Princeton, scored 13 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter as Portland, Oregon's first major league team, won its NBA debut.

John Warren scored 23 points and Wilt Chamberlain had 26 as Los Angeles put down a second half Chicago rally to beat the Bulls. West and Chamberlain teamed for 24 points as the Lakers took a 60-44 halftime lead, but Chicago moved to within three points in the second half before West's free throws late in the game put it out of reach.

Archie Clark scored 28 points to lead Philadelphia over San Diego, the Rockets' third defeat without a victory. Billy Cunn ingham and Bailey Howell had 19 points each for Philadelphia while Elvin Hayes had 34 and Calvin Murphy 17 for the Rockets.

Fuel Shortage?

Another unpleasant thought is what might be in store for us this coming winter if we have a national fuel shortage. The prospects of cold homes, power-short factories and frequent brownouts throughout most of the East in the coming months won't cheer anyone.

The immediate problem is a shortage of fuel oil. Large industrial users are competing for limited supplies and literally leaving the small home consumer out in the cold. But that is only the beginning. Coal, the most obvious substitute, is also short. Production has declined steadily, in recent years falling short of consumption so that stockpiles are already depleted. Natural gas, with reserves dwindling, can't fill the gap. As for electricity, it is largely produced by burning oil, coal and gas.

What it adds up to is an across-the-board energy crisis that has been building for some time and which some experts fear may be with us for possibly decades.

Explanations are several. The Northeast complains that federal quotas which limit imports of foreign oil to the advantage of domestic producers have led to shortages and high prices. The coal industry has been neglected during the postwar reign of seemingly abundant oil as the glamor fuel. Even more glamorous nuclear power has yet to come close to fulfilling dazzling predictions as a practical energy source. At present, nuclear generators contribute less than two per cent of total electric power, less than one per cent of all energy output.

Even current concern over pollution has had an effect, delaying and sometimes blocking expansion of generating facilities in the cause of environmental preservation.

All such details on poor planning or management aside, the basic cause is simply that Americans, along with other industrial nations, have been devouring energy as if the supply were inexhaustible. Per capita consumption of electricity, for example, has been increasing at a rate five times that of the U.S. population. But there is a limit, at least in generating capacity, and we seem to be at or near it with no easy means of expansion immediately at hand.

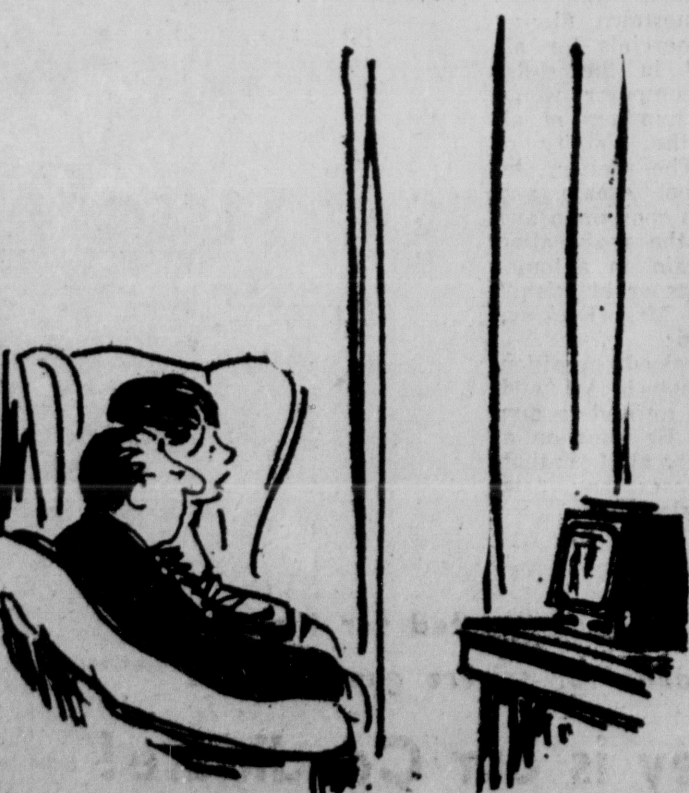

A brand-new energy source would be a welcome way out, and there actually is one such possibility, the heat locked within the earth itself, which shouldn't be overlooked. Natural hot springs that heat conveniently located cities such as Trempealeau, Wis., and Reykjavik, Iceland, are only a hint of the potential scientists have long recognized. Experiments are now under way in California, New Zealand, Japan and other areas of geyser activity, where the earth's crust is thin and subsurface heat easily accessible, to harness this geothermal power on a much larger scale.

And we should not give up on nuclear power, at least the Atomic Energy Commission isn't. Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg recently came out with yet another dazzling prediction that "30 years from now nuclear power plants will be generating over one-half the nation's total electric power."

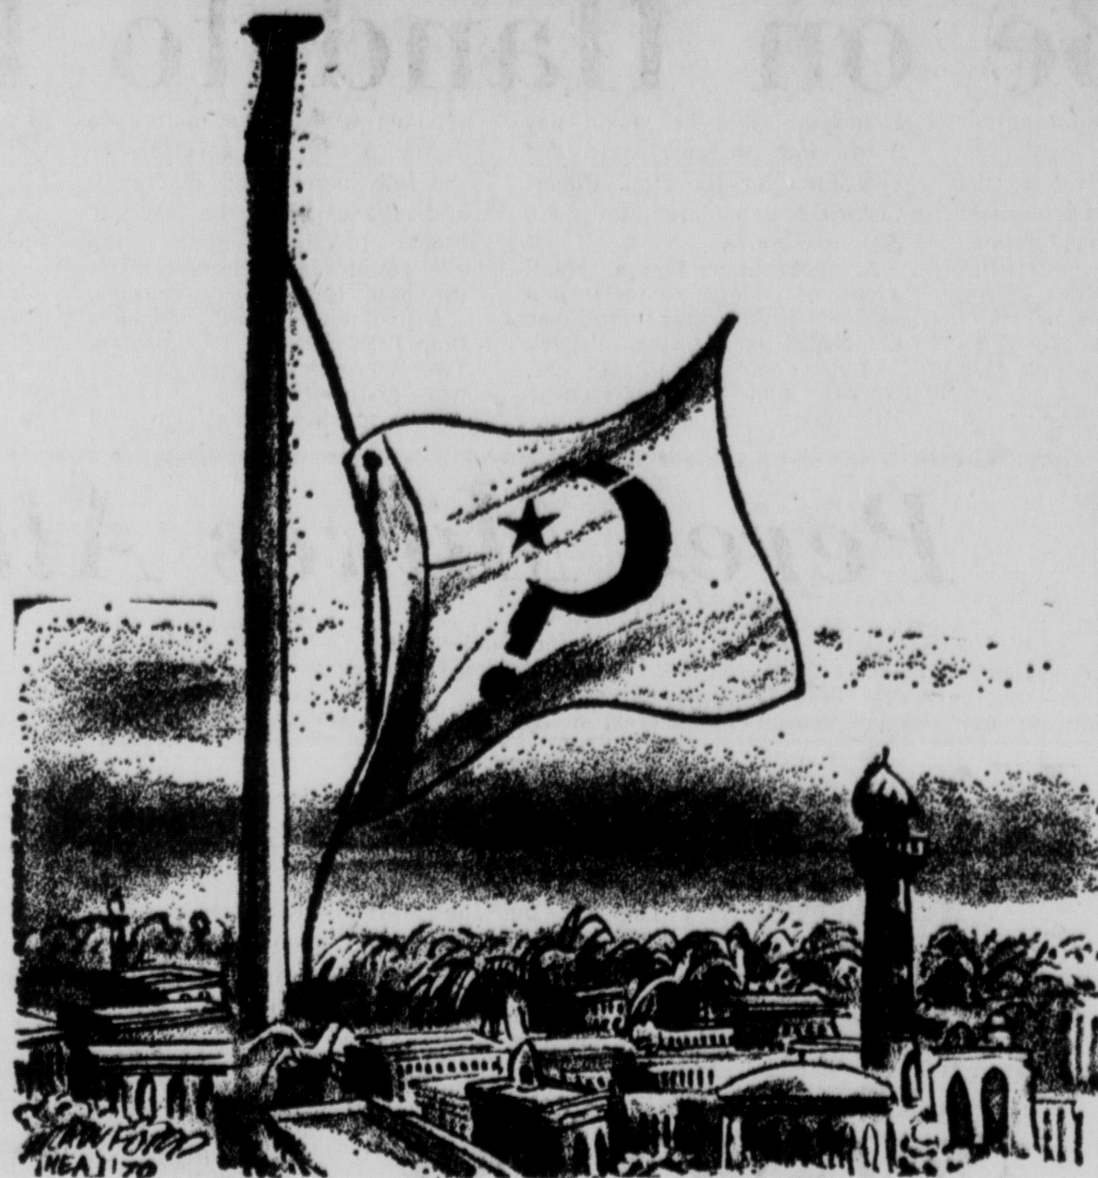

But rescue by geyser or atom power is still a long-term proposition. In the meantime, we are going to have to do better at managing power sources already available.

The Federal Trade Commission has published the draft of a regulation for a three-day "cooling off" period in which the buyer could cancel any agreement to buy consumer goods or services costing $10 or more. The aim is to protect householders from high pressure door-to-door salesmen.

Henry J. Taylor Says
Sadat Is Soviet Stoolie

Secretary of State William P. Rogers has now unraveled — with an assist from our Central Intelligence Agency — the Soviet's secret power play in the selection (Anwar Sadat) of the new President of Egypt. And he does not see a shred of good news in it for us or for peace in the Middle East.

Sadat, a dedicated Soviet stooge, won out in Egypt over two men scarcely noted in our press. These particularly included long-time Nasser confidants Sharawi Guma, Nasser's Interior Minister and chief of his secret police, intimately known to the Cairo agents of the CIA, and Minister of State Amin Huwaydi.

On the evening before Gamal Abdel Nasser left Cairo on his mission to Moscow last December he shouted to his hand-picked 360-member National Assembly: "The United States is our enemy. Our friend is the Soviet Union." But behind the scenes, although to the knowledge of the CIA, both Guma and Huwaydi are suspicious of the U.S.S.R.

Apparently, this reached the Soviet intelligence agents in Cairo, for the CIA found that Soviet officials had literally isolated Guma and Huwaydi from any contact with the Russian Embassy. The Soviet contingent was dangerously seething under the surface about these two important Egyptian leaders and Nasser cronies, observed the CIA.

Red Army Chief of Staff Marshal Matvei Zakharov, the godfather of Arab rearmament after the Israel Six-day war, visited Cairo a month before Nasser's mission to Moscow.

Zakharov's visit was a hushed-up scandal. His arrogance began by barring all Egyptians within miles of the airport at Heliopolis and ended in an orgy of brutal antics by Zakharov's entourage against the Egyptian onlookers in front of Cairo's Hilton Hotel.

Immediately thereafter Nasser telephoned Premier Aleksei N. Kosygin to complain about this and regarding an unauthorized meeting between Zakharov and Anwar Sadat.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko went to Cairo two weeks before Nasser's Kremlin visit. He suggested to Nasser that he leave Guma and Huwaydi behind. Gromyko, speaking for Kosygin, sold him the idea that it would be best all around if the Russians could deal with "congenial personalities."

Nasser complied. He left both Guma and Huwaydi isolated in Cairo and, instead, took with him Kosygin's nominee, Anwar Sadat, Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, another stooge, and War Minister Mohammed Fawzi, whom Nasser promoted from nothing.

In Moscow, Kosygin and Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev brushed off Riad and Fawzi except on ceremonial occasions, and even in public at the Kremlin banquet before Nasser returned to Cairo on December 12, but insisted Sadat be present at the confidential talks with Nasser. This intensely irritated Egypt's President. And Zakharov compounded Nasser's irritation by further unauthorized talks alone with Sadat.

In behalf of Pan Arabism

Kuwait ($132 million), Saudi Arabia ($120 million), Libya ($72 million) and other Arab countries contribute an annual subsidy of $288 million to Egypt to offset the economic effect of closing the Suez Canal and the territorial losses resulting from the wars with Israel. Kuwait and Saudi Arabia are anti-Russian and intensely anti-Sadat. But the Soviet support of Egypt — militarily and economically — is immense and indispensable, of course, and, on Nasser's sudden death and instantly on Kosygin's arrival for the funeral, Kosygin moved in.

The Soviet Premier had the good grace not to bring Marshal Zakharov with him in the plane from Moscow, but the signal was given when CIA agents found that Kosygin's first private talk was with Sadat after the greetings at the Cairo airport.

Under the Nasser system the "nomination" for President sent to the National Assembly, half of whom are peasants and workers, is equivalent to "election." With Egypt's dependence on the Soviet Union the CIA finds that by then, the Moscow meeting with Sadat having served the Russian purpose, Kosygin hardly had to lift a hand. He merely passed the word to Guma, Huwaydi and the rest that it would be Sadat.

At once the word went beating through the Assembly like a tribal drum and the elements in the Cairo government who are suspicious of the Soviet went to bed with only bitter thoughts for company.

Nasser has been the Kremlin's Castro in the Mediterranean, but he was never a mere puppet. Now he has Sadat, who is.

Jack Anderson Says
Buckley Runs in New York,
Family Lives Out of State

WASHINGTON — Gentle Jim Buckley, well scrubbed and well heeled, is running hard for Senator from New York. But unless he has left his wife and children, Buckley lives in Connecticut.

The Buckley home is in the scenic village of Sharon, Conn., about 100 miles outside New York City. It is a large brick building that lies among the elegant cluster of colonial houses that make up the fabulous Buckley family compound known as "The Elms."

While Buckley like many other rich Easterners has maintained a swanky apartment in New York, his wife and six children reside in Sharon.

At least two of his children, Priscilla and Andy, attend private day schools in the little town. The family also belongs to the Sharon Country Club.

The New York apartment merely gives Buckley a place to stay when he journeys into the city to take part in managing the Catawba Corporation, the family's holding company for its enormous oil investments.

Because the Constitution is vague on the subject of state residency, requiring only that a candidate be an "inhabitant," there is little chance that Buckley's non-residency would be a legal bar to his serving in the Senate.

However, the issue could become a major embarrassment to him because of the howls of indignation that came from his family's house organ, the conservative "National Review," when the late Robert Kennedy moved into New York to run for the Senate in 1964.

"National Review," which is edited by Jim Buckley's brilliant brother Bill, accused Kennedy of being a carpetbagger. At one point Bill Buckley wrote of the Kennedys: "I am always left breathless by the sheer gall of the tribe."

Breathless or not, Bill Buckley has not hesitated to use his syndicated column to pump now for his brother's candidacy. This week, for instance, he wrote a full column defending Vice President Agnew's intervention in the New York race on Buckley's behalf.

Les Arends, the durable old

House Republican whip, doesn't like to read about secret White House meetings in this column.

He showed up at a recent White House political parley with photostats of two columns, describing in detail what had happened at previous meetings of party leaders.

"If everything that goes on at these meetings is going to wind up in Jack Anderson's column," grumped Arends, "there's no use holding any more meetings."

He passed the photostats around as evidence.

President Nixon smiled good naturedly. "Let's keep these discussions off the record," he agreed.

Under the Dome. Beneath the Capitol dome, and in the five great white marble buildings surrounding it, there was a flurry of activity before Congress finally shut down for the election campaign. Here are our notes:

A quiet revolt was brewing in the backrooms against the leadership of Mike Mansfield, the lean, leathery Senate Democratic boss. Democratic Senators have been chafing over his slow pace. . . . Secret polls showed Hale Boggs, the likeable Louisiana, far ahead in lining up votes for House Democratic leader next year. . . . Carl Albert, the next speaker, told colleagues that in his native Oklahoma the Democrat who gets the biggest cheer is old Harry Truman. . . .

Looking Beyond a 'Zero Draft'

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In announcing that he hopes to end all draft calls by mid-1973, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is in effect saying two very significant things:

That there will be further drastic over-all cuts in the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines beyond those already announced.

That he and President Nixon are certain the war in Vietnam will be virtually over so far as the United States is concerned by mid-1973, that there will be very few U.S. troops there by the end of that year and what ground troops there are will be present largely in an advisory-technical capacity. (The Air Force and Navy roles are a separate matter — since they can move in and out with some speed.)

A very low-key war is a prerequisite for further major cuts in the over-all size of the U.S. military establishment worldwide.

And likewise a much smaller military force overall is a prerequisite for a "zero" draft (a standby draft with registrations but no inductions).

Over the past several years this reporter has studied the draft-calls-and-military-size statistics in the United States and in a number of foreign countries. With few exceptions, no country has been able to maintain a wholly volunteer army, navy and air force except when the total number of men in military service was a very small proportion of the total military-age manpower.

Historically, there have been in this country considerable numbers of volunteers in the first flush of most conflicts (before people became war-weary). And also when draft calls go up sharply, however high or low the popularity of the war. (Men who believe they will certainly be called see a number of advantages in volunteering before they're drafted.)

The "zero" draft will put added pressure on bringing sizable numbers of U.S. troops home from Europe and make it necessary to seriously consider further cuts in our forces in Korea.

Essentially, it is a retrenchment of the type (though not of the scale) of the British withdrawals from Asia and the Middle East. There are men in the State Department and civilians in the Pentagon who believe these withdrawals will have widespread repercussions on U.S. foreign policy.

They believe that in both the East and West the pullback will cause some nations to seek rapprochement with the Soviet Union, Red China and North Vietnam on the theory that these three countries will move in to fill the vacuum being left by the United States, just as the Kremlin has moved in to take over from the British.

The American withdrawals, especially from Korea, could also lead, these men believe, to the serious rearming of a Japan no longer certain of U.S. protection.

This American shift could likewise lead to a defense build-up in a range of other countries around the perimeter of Russia, Red China and North Vietnam. For it is clear from private statements made by men in a number of these countries to this reporter and to his overseas contacts, that regardless of any rapprochements with Russia, Red China and North Vietnam on paper, there is no great confidence among their neighbors that these three countries will abide by any "mutual respect" agreements.

Ted Kennedy Is Off
And Running Fast

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

BOSTON (NEA) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his fabled campaign magic unimpaired, is running for reelection in Massachusetts as intensely as if he had a 1972 presidential bid in mind. But he does not, and friends say it's just that Kennedy's don't know how else to run.

The second day I traveled with him we made 20 campaign stops in western Massachusetts, and had about five under the belt before we had a decent breakfast. The day before, opening the "fall foliage festival" in the Berkshires, he marched two hours in a drenching rain in a North Adams parade.

This latter sort of thing seems necessary in New England to prove one's manhood, and the evidence is it pays off. A woman spotting him among the soggy marchers shouted:

"Look at him, no hat, no umbrella, he's got my vote!"

Neither Kennedy nor anyone around him ever says it, but obviously a good vote for him this year would stand as important reassurance for him after the 1969 Chappaquiddick tragedy in which a girl secretary lost her life as he drove his car off a rickety bridge in pitch dark.

The "conventional thinking" among all those with some pretense to expertise is that he ought to rack up 55 to 60 per cent of the vote against his attractively low-key Republican opponent, Josiah Spaulding, a Boston lawyer. I found one or two daring enough to suggest Kennedy might go higher.

The trouble with being a Kennedy is that you have to run against the best thing you have ever done. And the irony in his campaign history is that this man who runs from dawn to midnight got his greatest vote, a 1.2 million margin and 72 per cent of the total, in a year (1964) when he was immobilized by a broken back and couldn't campaign.

In Kennedy's first campaign strategy session at his Virginia home in mid-June, 1969, a month before Chappaquiddick, a key adviser told him he'd have immense difficulty matching 1964.

He was helped mightily that year by sympathy for his own plight (a brush with death in a plane crash), by sympathy for his assassinated brother, the late President John Kennedy, and by Barry Goldwater's weakness against Lyndon Johnson in Massachusetts and elsewhere.

The adviser at the Virginia session reminded Ted that only he and Johnson, Leverett Saltonstall in 1944 and John Kennedy in 1958 ever had piled up winning margins beyond 53-54 per cent. Yet even without this kind of prodding counsel, or the Chappaquiddick business, Ted would be going all out because it is ingrained Kennedy habit. He is not the half-day type. From the moment in the morning when you see the first young man with a busy air and a penchant for working the phone, you're caught in the whirlwind.

TEEN SCENE: Month That Closed an Era of Greats

by LEI

It was like the second run of a frightening flick, or a recurring bad dream. It still didn't seem real that Jimi Hendrix could be dead, and now the transistor was crackling the same bad news about Janis Joplin. Janis—like Jimi, a name that needed no last name to tell who was meant.

Janis, with the voice that was fire, and smoke, was blues and oranges and screams and sighs; cold silver and red-hot rivets. Janis, who flew from the Airplane, searched for inner comfort in Southern Comfort, and then left too soon to go down the burrow with the white rabbit she sang about.

Jimi, the black singer that some people thought sounded too white, and Janis, the white singer who had been accused of copying black sound, had left at almost the same time for a realm where black and white were only part of the spectrum, and the music was formed by the collisions of the cosmos. The 'sixties were a discarded calendar. And Janis and Jimi, suddenly had become "... The late and great ..." part of the heritage of American rock and blues, but tragically, unbelievably, never able to help form the future of music in the new decade.

Only a few weeks before, the Beatles were toppled from their number-one group position. Recently, a New York City daily had a photo of Paul McCartney on the front page. A half-decade ago, teen-aged girls had worn saucer-sized "I LUV PAUL" buttons. They had pelted him with jellybeans and insisted that he was the "Sweet Beatle," even in the face of mounting evidence that none of the Beatles was particularly sweet, and that Paul, was, if anything, the least sweet. He was the first to sacrifice the image of a talented group to exploit his individual gifts singing a song prophetically titled "Yesterday." Eventually, it was his ego that engulfed the Beatles to their destruction—he was the talent they could not survive, but could not survive without. In that recent photo, herding his wife and two toddlers, Paul was unmistakably a man almost thirty years old, getting fat and facing the knowledge that yesterday his problems seemed so far away. ... Last year he was rumored to be dead. Physically, he is not. ...

Donovan married, and hundreds of fans discovered that he had a last name. The girl he married had loved Brian Jones, the Rolling Stone who had rolled too fast, and been too stoned. In America it is termed "accidental death," "cardiac arrest," or "death through natural causes." In England, where the language came from, they have an apter term. Brian Jones died through "misadventure." Now, his son will carry Donovan's unbranded last name. The Rolling Stones never gathered any moss. Donovan cultured moss, carried it, wove it into his music, dappled with fern and pine and surf and stars.

Brian Jones is dead, and his eyes look out of the face of a young boy who will grow up calling another singer his father. He won't be the first to forget Jones, though. And Donovan has a new record out. ...

Once there was a child actress called Elizabeth Taylor. She was lithe and innocent and she rode horseback. She could pout with her mouth, and her eyes still smiled. Suddenly, somehow, it was 20 years later, she was known as Liz, and she was watching her 18-year-old son marry a girl who was older than she had been in her first films. The boy is interested in acting and directing. Liz's eyes look like they've been tarred and feathered, and they belie her bare-toothed smile. But the diamond sparkles enough to make up for it—and after all, she is an actress. Within a year or so she will also probably be a grandmother.

Girls too young to remember anything but skirts above the knee are the first to buy the midi. There are teenagers who don't remember what a disco was. There are even more who don't recall who Tuesday Weld or the Blues Magoos or Peter Noone are—or were. They are all still alive—proving that the entertainment world contains both the dead survivors and the living dead.

Summer of 1970 passed slowly below the horizon, and the 'sixties, like the constellations of summer, sink from the sky, out of view. Ahead, for most of the world will be the 'seventies.

For Jimi, and Janis, and Brian Jones, there is the snow and the autumn leaves and the closing chords of a song that was never quite finished—in which could lie its greatness.

Youth in the News

A queen reigns and musicians are crowned with glory as Youth in the News reviews the past week.

Nancy Hapeman and Alan Van Ness of Red Hook Central High School have been selected as members of the 1970 All State Band. They will perform as instrumentalists with the All-State Band in conjunction with the New York State School Music Association Annual conference Dec. 7, 8 and 9 at the Concord Hotel.

Nancy, a senior, has been an active member of the band program for seven years, playing bass clarinet in the elementary, junior high and high school bands. She was a member of the 1967 All-County Junior High Band and attended the Genesee Summer Band Workshop in 1968 under the direction of Lt. Col. Arnold Gabriel.

In 1968 and 1969 she was selected for the area All-State Band and played in the first-chair position in 1969. Nancy has attended solo competition in 1969 and 1970 winning A-6 ratings each time.

Other activities have included her membership in the school state band and the pit band for the 1970 Musical Show.

Alan has been an active member of the music department for seven years and was elected vice-president of the band and president of the choir in this, his junior year. He also played in the elementary and junior high bands and during 1966 and 1967 he auditioned for and won a place in the Guam Wind Ensemble.

Following his return to Red Hook Alan played first-chair alto sax in the 1968 and 1969 area All-State Band, was a member of the stage band and the pit band for the 1970 Musical Show. He attended the solo competition in 1970 and received a perfect A-6 rating.

Both students are college-bound with Nancy planning for a music minor and Alan a music major.

A former Ulster County girl reigned as homecoming queen at Plattsburgh State University College last weekend.

Marti Runge, a junior at Plattsburgh was selected by popular vote of the student body. She was one of seven candidates for the honor of queen for Homecoming Weekend at the Lake Champlain area campus.

The new queen majors in elementary education and is a resident assistant in Harrington Residence Hall. She is a member of the Resident Assistant Council, and treasurer of the College's Activities Coordinating Board. Miss Runge is also a member of the women's intercollegiate field hockey team, and a former Plattsburgh Fall Orientation Leader.

Homecoming '70s Queen was crowned before a crowd of approximately 150 people in the lounge of the College's Clinton Dining Hall. Last year's Homecoming Queen, Miss Linda Perkins, announced Miss Runge's selection and presented her with her crown.

Miss Runge is the daughter of Paul T. Runge of 72 Playland Court, Patterson, former principal at Ontario and Mrs. Joseph Ansanio of 646 Delaware Avenue, Kingston.

News of Ulster County students on other college campuses keeps coming in with honors.

Kendra R. Kintner of West Hurley has been named to the dean's list at Alfred University for the second semester of the school year just past.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean M. Kintner of R.D. 1, Box 160, West Hurley, she is currently enrolled as a sophomore in Alfred's College of Liberal Arts.

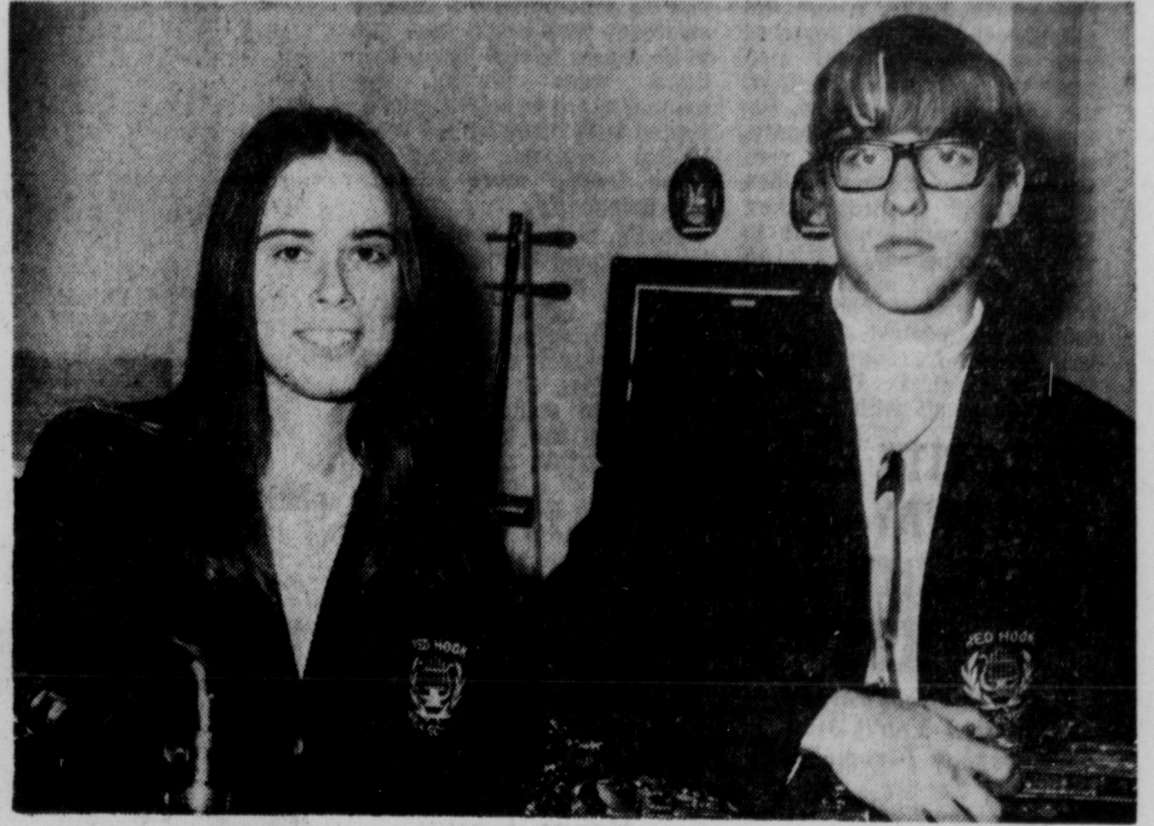

Thomas Panek of Highland is enrolled in the unique forestry program at Columbia-Greene Community College, Athens. Through arrangement with the Syracuse University College of Forestry, students enrolled in the Columbia-Greene forest management program may meet requirements for transfer to the Forestry College for a bachelor's degree in one of the major forestry programs.

Starting classes this fall at St. Anselm's College, Manchester, N.H., after undergoing freshman orientation are two Kingston youths. They are Bartholomew J. Duto, son of Dr. and Mrs. Bartholomew J. Duto Sr. of 147 North Manor Avenue and David M. Rabbottini of 19 Lay Street.

An area girl has started her health career plans this fall.

Sandra Lee Berry, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey L. Berry, of P.O. Box 13, Rte. No. 28, West Hurley, N.Y., has recently been employed by The New York Hospital in New York City as a staff nurse assigned to the operating room. She is a graduate of Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing in Kingston, N.Y.

The New York Hospital—Cornell Medical Center is one of the world's foremost institutions in the care of the sick, teaching research and preventive medicine. The Center is composed of The New York Hospital, Cornell University Medical College and the Cornell University—New York Hospital School of Nursing. The Center is housed in 21 buildings, most of them of modified Gothic design, which extend three city blocks adjacent to the East River in upper midtown Manhattan, a site it has occupied since 1932.

Survey Swings Gap

POUGHKEEPSIE

The supposed gap between young people and their elders may not be nearly as wide as most parents think, if a survey taken recently at Poughkeepsie's Krissler Business Institute can be considered an accurate barometer of local opinion.

A public affairs survey was conducted in the form of an eight-part questionnaire, distributed at the school on Mansion Square.

To ensure a more free flow of information, students were asked not to sign the question sheets.

While Krissler Business Institute students for the most part opposed the Vietnam War, as might be expected, a surprisingly large number stated that they felt that Vice-President Agnew was doing a reasonably good job.

The questionnaire was filled out by 34 young women, and two men, ranging in age from 17 to 33. Exactly half the class members are 18 years of age, and all but six are under 21.

Question one was whether students favored the 18-year-old vote. Twenty-three favor it, eleven expressed opposition, and two said they had formed no opinion.

The second question merely stated: Vietnam War: "yes," "no," or "no opinion." Five students voted yes, 26 voted no, and five had no opinion. But on the other hand, a much smaller number answered "yes" to question three, which dealt with immediate withdrawal from Vietnam. The vote was 16 in favor, 14 opposed, and six had no opinion.

Adults may be surprised to learn that the majority of students at the Krissler Business Institute feel President Nixon is doing a good job, generally speaking, in handling the affairs of the nation. The question was "do you generally support the President?" Eighteen said yes, eight said no and 10 expressed no opinion.

A majority of the students oppose the legalization of marijuana. The vote on this question was 18 opposed, 12 in favor, six undecided.

The next question was broken down in a different manner. Students were asked their opinion of Vice-President Agnew, and given the choice of favorable, merely OK, unfavorable, and no opinion. None expressed a favorable view, but the majority, 19 in all, gave the Vice-President a vote of OK. Thirteen registered unfavorable, while four were undecided.

Regarding the operation of the Federal Government, the vote was: favorable, eight; OK, 22; unfavorable, three; and undecided, three.

The final question on the survey gave students an opportunity to "rate" their parents, who received an overwhelming vote of confidence. Twenty-seven registered a favorable opinion of their parents, seven said they're OK, only two registered as dissidents at home.

Commenting on the survey, KBI director Edgar H. Krissler said "we took this poll to find out how young people feel about the world around them. The survey will have no real bearing on our curriculum, of course, but it does tell us more about our students. In that respect, our school can only benefit. I feel that this survey also serves as an assurance to the parents of our students that if there is a gap between them, it is certainly not the great gulf that some observers take great pains to inflate."

Woodstock Teens Dance Slated Tonight

WOODSTOCK Marking its first year of operation at its board of directors meeting this week, the Woodstock Youth Council is preparing to swing into its fall-and-winter season of teenage recreation.

The Council will kick off its second year of activities with a festive fall dance tonight. The dance is slated at Town Hall from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m., and all area youth between the ages of 12 and 18 are welcome.

The county-rocking "Montgomerys," among top bands in the Hudson Valley, will provide music at the dance, and tickets will be available at the door for a nominal fee.

Following the opening dance, the Youth Center will begin operation at Town Hall Saturday, Oct. 24, continuing existing programs and established structure.

While the Center has been attracting local teenagers to its Town Hall location, members of the youth Council feel the major problem in confronting them presently is the acquisition of a building to house the Center for the coming year.

The board of directors has called upon any Woodstock resident who knows of a suitable building for rent to contact Council chairman Richard Mellert. Any building donated for use or offered for rent will be in better condition when it is returned than when it was acquired, promises the Youth Council.

Mellert and the other members of the board — Ralph Perry, Mrs. Victor Allen, and Theodore Geertsema — have also extended their thanks to all those individual residents and organizations who have donated urgently needed monies to keep the Center in operation during the past year.

Mellert has also announced that by appointment of the Town Board, three teenage members have been added to the youth Council, will work with the four adult members already serving. They are:

Carol Geertsema, Peter Cantine and Britt St. John.

It is the hope of the board now that it is a duly constituted agency that will continue as an arm of local town government — that parents of Woodstock teenagers will come forward in large numbers to support the Youth Council in any and all ways possible for the coming year.

Area Seniors Advised On SUNY Admissions

BOICEVILLE A system change and a shipping error have combined to complicate plans of Ontario High School seniors wishing to apply to any unit of the State University system according to announcement made today by Thomas P. Fickus, guidance director.

According to Fickus, the State's Admission Processing Center is engaged in changing the system a student follows when applying to any unit of the system. High school seniors formerly obtained application materials by writing directly to the college. The new method requires the local high school guidance office to stock and distribute the materials.

Although the Admissions Processing Center decided on the change many months ago, local guidance offices were not notified until early in September thereby giving them no opportunity to budget or staff for the added burden.

The situation is further aggravated by an apparent failure in the system for distributing materials to the local schools. A memorandum received early in September from Gary M. Cooley, director of the State University Admissions Processing Center said that "During the first weeks of September all high schools in New York State will receive the ... application materials."

When no materials were received in September, the Admissions Processing Center was contacted by telephone and it was learned that the materials were being distributed to schools in alphabetical order. A survey of the secondary schools in the county showed that none had received materials in September.

On Oct. 7, the Admissions Processing Center was again contacted by telephone and it was learned that all schools have received the application materials except the ones in the

New York City area. The reason given was that a transfer company shipped all materials to a New Jersey warehouse in error.

Students have long been urged by guidance counselors to apply early since the State University operates on the rolling admissions plan, which in effect means applications are processed in the order received by the college. Although Ontario did not receive the promised materials until Oct. 15, every effort will be made by the Guidance Department to minimize the harm to their students which may result from this situation, the guidance director said.

Scholarship Data Announced

High school seniors are turning their concern to college application and the possibility of financial help through scholarships.

Deadlines and other data on available scholarships in two areas have been announced this week.

State Deputy Wallace J. Stevenson has announced the start of the scholarship program for the 1970-71 columbian year, sponsored by the New York State Council Knights of Columbus. Richard Falzano has been appointed chairman for the Saugerties Council 4356.

The state is divided into 12 districts with three scholarships in each district for a total of 37 awards. A special offer is that of the Joseph S. Coffey Jr. memorial scholarship which is on a statewide basis, in the sum of $500 a year for a four-year period. There shall also be awarded the Joseph F. Lamb memorial award scholarships in the amount of $400 a year for each of four years, one scholarship for each district, 12 awards.

Scholarships are open to any catholic graduate of a recognized high school in New York State during the term ending January or June 1971. Candidates are required to submit to a preliminary regular college entrance test in scholastic aptitude given by the college entrance board or Princeton, N.J., Saturday, Dec. 5.

Scholarships may be used at any catholic college in the U.S. subject to approval by the committee. Applications must be filed with the committee no later than October 31, and may be obtained from Grand Knight Luther Wehr, Saugerties Council 4356.

The 37 scholarships will amount to a total approximate value of $40,000.

Applications for the 1971 Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps College Scholarship program are available now according to announcement by the U.S. Naval Reserve Training Center at Poughkeepsie. Interested students may obtain applications and further information at local high schools, Navy and Marine Corps Recruiting Stations or from the Chief of Naval Personnel Department of the Navy, Washington, D.C. 2037.

Calendar Dates Of Importance

Sunday appears to be an important day on the CYO teen calendar.

The first meeting of the Ulster County Council of Teen Age Clubs of Catholic Youth Organization will be held Sunday 2 p.m. at St. Mary's School in Kingston.

All adult advisors, moderators, Teen Club officers, delegates and members are urged to attend as plans will be made for the coming year.

Other important dates for high school juniors and seniors in Ulster and Northern Dutchess Counties are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this coming week. Miss Nancy J. Newkerk, associate director of admissions at Hartwick College, Oneonta, will be visiting area schools on those days conducting interviews with prospective students.

She will be at Kingston High School 1:30 p.m. Tuesday and at the Ulster County College Night at Rondout Valley Central High, Stone Ridge, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday she will be at Rhinebeck High School 11 a.m. and Thursday at Red Hook High School 3 p.m.

Wedding Told

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Schermer of Accord, announce the marriage of their daughter, Suzanne, to Petty Officer 3rd Class Robert L. Shull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Shull of Dansville. The double ring ceremony took place in the chapel at the Naval station in San Diego, Calif. on September 12. Chaplain Schumacher officiated.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white crepe with bell sleeves trimmed with daisy lace. Her veil, an illusion of four tiers, was attached to a narrow band of white crepe. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies. Mrs. Shull, a graduate of Rondout Valley High School and Ulster County Community College, has been working as a guidance teacher at the Home of Guiding Hands, Lakeside, Calif. The home is a residential facility for the mentally retarded.

Her husband is an alumnus of Dansville Central School. He served four years with the U.S. Navy, including a tour of duty in Vietnam where he was wounded and awarded the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart.

The couple will make their home in upstate New York.

'Good Old Days' to Be Revived At Old Fashioned Democratic Rally

People talk about how much fun it used to be in the "old days." Around election time, there would be a big Democratic Rally, where the neighbors could get together with old friends, and also meet the new neighbors down the road. The candidates, for the town and for the county, would be there to greet voters. One could get an idea of the kind of people they were, and would be able to vote for someone he felt he knew and in whom he had confidence. Then, the chairs would be pushed back to make room for square dancing. Most times the caller would start off with a "Paul Jones." That was to "mix it up" a bit, to give everyone a chance to meet everyone else. Chances were one would end up dancing with a perfect stranger, who would turn out to be a new friend. Then, too, there were always the home made refreshments, served with pride by the local ladies. Everyone would go home feeling more friendly and neighborly.

That's how it used to be, in the "good old days." But they are not all gone. The Town of Olive Democratic Club is bringing it all back Saturday night, Oct. 24, at the Olive Bridge fire hall, from 8 p.m. to midnight. Every resident of the town, new or old, is invited to come as guest at this old fashioned Democratic Rally and Square Dance. Those who need transportation should contact Carl Olson in Shokan.

Candace Shiels Exchanges Vows With Joseph Darwak

MRS. JOSEPH PETER DARWAK

St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, was the setting of the wedding of Miss Candace Shiels, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Shiels, 259 Smith Avenue, Kingston, and the late Rodney P. Shiels, and Joseph Peter Darwak, son of Mrs. Edna Darwak, 126 Linderman Avenue, Kingston, and the late Joseph Darwak, on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Keating with the Rev. William R. Peckham assisting. James Sweeney, organist, accompanied Robert Charlesworth who sang traditional wedding selections. Gold altar vases filled with gladioli, chrysanthemums, and pompons decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Leroy Brink, Glasco. She selected a satin empire, A-line gown. Venice lace trimmed the waist, the cuffs of her bishop sleeves, the ring neckline and the entire hemline. The attached chapel train was bordered with the same lace, and white daisies were effectively spotted over the gown. Her two tier daisy spotted mantilla was attached to a stylized headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and stephanotis with yellow floor-length streamers.

The honor attendant, Mrs. Pamela A. Loftus, sister of the bride, Rocky Point, L.I., wore a culotte gown of maize crepe. The gown featured a brown velvet bolero vest and cuffs trimmed with daisy lace. She carried a fireside basket of autumn flowers

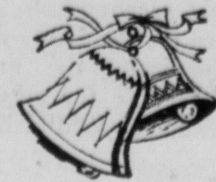

Miss Judith Loftus, niece of the bride, Rocky Point, L.I., served as flower girl. She wore a yellow crepe gown with a brown velvet bolero vest trimmed with daisy lace. She also wore a halo headpiece of autumn flowers and carried a fireside basket of autumn flowers trimmed with yellow streamers and bow.

Serving as best man for his brother was Michael Darwak of 126 Linderman Avenue, Kingston. Ushers were Don Broit, cousin of the bride, Lake Katrine; Frank Zammello, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Glasco; and Richard Dieter, Sawkill.

A reception for 100 guests was held at the Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties.

The bride wore a burgundy colored pants suit with black accessories for her wedding trip to Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. Darwak will make their home in Kingston.

accented with maize colored streamers and wore a headpiece of autumn flowers in her hair.

Attendants were Mrs. Lillian Zammello, sister of the bridegroom, Glasco; Miss Mary Ann Darwak, sister of the bridegroom, 126 Linderman Avenue, Kingston; and Miss Sharolyn Kastner, Stone Ridge. Their apricot gowns were identical in styling to that of Mrs. Loftus'. They wore headpieces of autumn flowers and carried fireside baskets of autumn flowers with apricot streamers.

Urge Nimrods Not to Eat Sna Lake Fish

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The State Department of Environmental Conservation has advised fishermen not to eat fish taken from Saratoga Lake because of possible mercury poisoning.

"We are not banning fishing in Saratoga Lake," Commissioner Henry L. Diamond said. "We are advising fishermen not to eat fish caught there because the edible portions of some of the samples taken contain mercury levels above the action level established by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration."

"To the best of our knowledge no mercury is now being discharged into any of the waterways draining into Saratoga Lake and we are continuing to scrutinize the lake drainage area," he said. He added that at one time, several firms suspected to be mercury users were located on tributaries to the lake.

On the basis of earlier testing done by the department, fishermen were advised not to eat fish from lakes Erie, Ontario and Champlain, the Oswego River, the St. Lawrence River and the Niagara River to guard against possible ingestion of mercury. The problem has forced the closing to fishermen of Onondaga Lake.

Woodstock Independents—Accommodating Move

Only short weeks after it began forming, the new Woodstock Independent Party has already begun conducting political experiments.

While WIP's announced intention is a bigger voice in helping to run town governmental affairs, the newest element in that undertaking could lead to complicating developments.

It is rare in politics today to see either side moving toward accommodation, but that's exactly what WIP intends to do. Organizers of the new party plan an "experiment in absolutely open politics."

In the full knowledge that, traditionally, established parties admit only enrolled members to their caucuses, WIP is throwing its first caucus type session wide open.

In announcing a session for the election of officers and the solicitation of ideas at the Woodstock School on Friday, Oct. 23 at 8:30 p.m., Independents hope for an open forum that will attract a cross section of voters from all segments of the community.

In recent weeks, public meetings called by the independents have indeed drawn large crowds, with most of those attending being young. The registration drive conducted by WIP saw hundreds of new voters added to the Woodstock voting list and, again, the vast majority of these were youthful.

Still, in the full knowledge that politics today is based on tight organization, WIP is setting up an open caucus—one in which everyone who attends will be considered a voting member, regardless of his present enrollment status.

To Enlarge Appeal

Says a spokesman for the party: "We will experiment by stressing 'open' in an effort to convince everyone that this is a political undertaking for all Woodstockers interested in better government and a better town. We want our party to appeal to all age groups and to all political philosophies, and to attract anyone and everyone interested in local problems as they affect those of us who call Woodstock home."

Convinced that the best suggestions for governing a town can come only from those who know that town intimately, WIP is urging Republicans, Democrats, Liberals and Conservatives alike to attend Friday's caucus; avail themselves of the privilege of nominating officers, whether they have worked for the Independent cause before or not.

Organizers fully understand that this could lead to a confrontation, in that the meeting might well be "packed" or "taken over" by the opposition. But they also feel that such a session could result in the Independent cause receiving support from voters in established parties through a better understanding of WIP's aims.

"By showing that we lend our own support to 'openness,'" suggests a spokesman, "we are hopeful that such an open meeting for open politics will prove out."

Risk Worth Taking

Conceding the possibility that the fledgling party could find itself in the position of having no political counterpart officers elected from outside anywhere today, WIP organizers the founding group in such an open caucus, those involved feel one such "risk" is worth taking and if it results in attracting people who will decide, as a result of the experience, to align themselves with the group.

"The benefits of really getting sponsoring is not so much a people involved in a political caucus in the established sense, action are worth any and all but a return to the town meeting concept of government—a the caucus will be "an absolute concept that allowed the people refutation of the concept of a themselves to pass judgment on political party as a small group what they felt was best for them on a local and grassroots level.

Buckley Questions Ottinger's Stance

QUEENS

James L. Buckley, Conservative Independent candidate for United States Senator, said in Queens that "when it comes to matters economic, Mr. Ottinger is either ignorant or deceptive."

"Mr. Ottinger poses as a friend of the people," said Buckley, "but he is very much against the people getting a decent rate of return on their investments."

The super-rich can get maximum rates on their millions, but the little man who has only his modest savings to invest is stuck with the substandard rate savings banks are allowed to pay. Now a corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., is considering offering to the man who doesn't have thousands of dollars to invest the chance to get a decent return on his hard-earned savings, and we find Mr. Ottinger in the forefront of the leadership trying to prevent it.

He objects to the proposed bonds because, he says, they will divert funds from housing."

Buckley made the remarks during a morning motorcade tour of Queens and in a statement released from his campaign headquarters.

"What Mr. Ottinger is really doing, of course, is levying a tax on the middle class in order to subsidize housing. But as with other taxes and subsidies, he hasn't got the guts to call them by their proper names."

"When it comes to matters economic, Mr. Ottinger is either ignorant or deceptive. For example, in addition to restricting the small investor, he complains about the declining quality of telephone service and about the pollution which will be caused by Con Ed's plans for expanding its power generating capacity. Yet at the same time he objects to any rise in utility rates. He doesn't seem to realize that inflation hurts them as well as others. How does he expect corporations to research and develop the new technology needed for the better service, lower rates and less pollution which he also demands?"

"To the extent we, as a society need to subsidize, for example, housing, let's do it openly and honestly. Only then can we tell and control how much, when and where subsidization should be given. The reason housing money is scarce is because the Federal government has swallowed it up in financing the wage deficits which Congressmen Ottinger has helped to create. Mr. Ottinger, incidentally, fought for and won the endorsement of the liberal "Americans for Democratic Action," whose programs would add 100 billion dollars, a 50 per cent increase to the Federal budget, with a consequent increase in taxes and/or inflation. Either way the middle class pays for such profligacy. We are now getting a look at how Mr. Ottinger intends to bill them."

"Mr. Ottinger seeks to make an end run around democracy by compelling the middle class to forego top rates on their investments. He would forbid middle-class investors from getting a fair return on their money while leaving the profitable investments to the rich."

Charge Assault After Red Hook Knifing Incident

RED HOOK

A Red Hook tavern owner underwent emergency surgery this morning at Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck after he was allegedly stabbed in the leg by a 20-year-old Tivoli youth, according to deputies from the Dutchess County Sheriff's Office.

Bertram Mann, 40, of Magdal Inn, Route 9G, was admitted to the hospital in serious condition, said officials, with a stab wound in the thigh.

Robert W. Dunn, 20, of 11 Washburn Avenue, Tivoli, has been charged with first degree assault as a result of the alleged altercation. He is currently in the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail pending later action by the District Attorney's Office.

Sheriff's deputies reported that Dunn was removed from the Red Hook tavern by Mann after the youth became "highly intoxicated." Mann then returned to the kitchen but was allegedly followed by Dunn who, said police, grabbed a butcher knife off a table and stabbed the man in the thigh. The incident occurred at about 2 a.m. Saturday. The knife, added authorities, severed an artery in the man's leg.

Dunn pleaded innocent to the charge at arraignment proceedings before Town of Red Hook Justice Albert Trezza Jr., and was then committed to the Poughkeepsie Jail.

Torraca Points To the Record

KINGSTON

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca advised that the Judicial Conference figures for the Third Judicial District, which includes Ulster and six neighboring counties, from July 1, 1966 through June 30, 1969 reflects that Ulster County, though third in population, is first in the number of convictions after trial and, percentage-wise, is first in convictions of all adult defendants indicted. Torraca said, "this certainly refutes the way out and deliberately misleading remarks of the Democratic candidate invariably accompanied by a lot of phony and distorted figures, who would have the public believe that my office has done nothing in the past several years but draw paychecks."

Torraca further advised that for the period from July 1, 1969 through June 30, 1970 there were 17 cases tried by the District Attorney's office resulting in 14 convictions and three hung juries. Torraca pointed out that three of the above cases were murder trials, each one of which took almost a month to try, resulting in two convictions and one hung jury. Torraca went on to state that of all adult offenders charged with selling drugs, excluding those who were certified as addicts and sent to narcotic rehabilitation centers, convictions have been obtained in over 80 per cent of the cases completed.

Torraca described Francis R. Vogt, the Republican Conservative candidate who is also his first assistant, as an extremely competent and experienced trial lawyer and stated that the people of Ulster County were fortunate to have a man of Vogt's calibre seeking the office.

Dear Abby

Belated Thank You's

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I was married two years ago last June. My parents gave me such a beautiful wedding, people are still talking about it. I had several bridal showers and received many shower gifts as well as wedding gifts.

Well, you know how busy a bride is just before her wedding. I didn't get around to sending thank you notes for the bridal shower gifts, and then the wedding gifts started pouring in even before the wedding and lots came afterwards.

When I got back from my honeymoon I had the big job of getting settled in our apartment, and right after that I got pregnant. I'm ashamed to admit that I was even given baby showers, so there were more gifts to send "thank you's" for.

Well, I just never got around to sending thank you's and my mother is furious with me. So is my mother-in-law.

Whenever I see anyone who gave me a gift I thank them sincerely for what they gave me—if I can remember what it was.

Will you be a pal and put a "confidential" in your column to let people know I really appreciated their gifts? Use my initials and sign it Ashamed in St. Louis.

ASHAMED
DEAR ABBY: (And you ought to be.) I am not running a message center, but I appreciate your letter because it affords me an opportunity to tell you (and others like you) something you should know.

There is no excuse for neglecting to send a written thanks to those who have spent their time and money on a gift for you. Perhaps "better late than never" is the appropriate bromide here. But a better one is, "No duty is more urgent than that of returning thanks."

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large department store which employs a policeman who serves as a security guard. It makes me sick when some mothers who can't control their children try to make them behave by saying, "If you don't mind me, that policeman is going to take you away." Or even worse, "That cop will shoot you with his gun, if you don't behave!"

Some children are absolutely petrified by our sweet, old security man.

When I went to school, we were taught that the policeman was our friend. Have times changed so much? I am only 21.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET
The man who always goes his own way is married to a woman who is a practicing psychologist.

Most any gal can find a husband—finding a single man is sometimes a little more difficult.

It's time to get out the lawn mower—so you can get at the snow machine.

Neighbor says her baby now gets alphabet soup, and in just one feeding has learned to spill.

The more change in the ladies' styles, the less in the men's pockets.

Some lunch counters have everything on the menu—and we wish they'd distribute a few clean ones.

Our cleaner now offers "executive service" for an additional charge, he dusts out the cuffs instead of pressing in the lint as usual.

It's just about harvest time for election plums.
(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

DEAR HAD: And I'm glad you did. Perhaps some of the guilty mothers will read this and take heed.

DEAR ABBY: After being a widow for three years, I married a very nice bachelor. I have three children, 4, 6 and 7. Nancy, my 4-year-old, had been sleeping with me for two years and since I got married, three months ago, this has caused a big problem. Nancy refuses to stay in her own bed. I put her in bed with her older sister but she won't stay there. Soon she climbs into our bed with us. My husband has gotten disgusted and has moved to another room. He says we simply push him out of the bed. We have a king sized bed, Abby, and Nancy doesn't take up much room, but that still doesn't solve my problem. Have you any ideas?

A MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Yes. Insist that Nancy stay in her own bed. If she comes into your bed, take her back to her own bed. Under no circumstances allow her to sleep with you, unless you've had enough of married life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOHN (NO DOUGH) DOE: Tell your fiancée's mother that two carats takes more lettuce than you have. Also that you do not wish to borrow the money from your future father-in-law to buy his daughter a ring, even though he insists that he doesn't care when the money is repaid. And you flatly refuse to accept as a "gift" a diamond that has been in the girl's family for years, have it reset and present it to your fiancée, and not tell anybody where it came from. And since your fiancée said she would rather have no diamond at all than a little one, that is what you plan to give her. No diamond at all. And lotsa luck. I think you are going to need it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." (Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:10 a.m. WKNY-1490)

WHY WE SAY

TALK TURKEY
DEAL: This expression is traced back to early American deals with the Indians. The Indians wanted to bargain for various types of articles, but the settlers were more interested in buying turkey than getting handicraft from the Indians.

Sunday

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a fine day to get off on some jaunt or fact-finding expedition or some pleasure trip which will better equip you for the days ahead. Listen to whatever anyone else has to say, but be sure to double-check for accuracy since many may be mistaken in views.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to combine pleasure with business so you can also become knowledgeable about current trends which can produce profits for you. Get errands and shopping out of the way. Gather data needed. Avoid going off on any tangents.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) No better day than this to show how well you can handle monetary affairs and make an excellent impression on others. Make necessary repairs on property to increase the value. See to it that your car is running properly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Combine mental and manual dexterity and it will be easy to get important work done efficiently and profitably. Excellent for attending a group meeting in P.M. Show your finest talents.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Have a little meeting with allies and learn why production has not gone as well as it should have. The evening can be particularly fine for romance. No extravagance, though.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have friends who are desirous of seeing you, but why wait for them to make the calls all the time? Pick up the phone early and set up appointments. You are able to come closer to some vital personal aim.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you understand what is expected of you by higher-ups, you can carry through with work much better. Many situations arise that help you put your finest talents to work. Happiness of a persons kind can be yours in P.M.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) New people, projects, ideas are fine for you to concentrate on today so that you get a new lease on life. Planning some new trip soon is wise, also. Get all the information necessary early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find some new and better way to take care of all your responsibilities now, and be very precise. Ideal day for whatever is of a romantic nature in your life. Save time for little personal tasks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you give associates quick cooperation you find they repay you in kind and you make better arrangements for the days ahead. You have to deal kindly with persons in business to get the finest benefits. Arrive on time for appointments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) With all the work ahead of you, you scarcely know where to begin, but handling the most vital matters first is wise. Take the time to buy new wearing apparel and accessories which improve your wardrobe. Enjoy a breather tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can have an excellent time at whatever pleases you most, so get into activities that are delightful. Some special thoughtfulness shown to mate brings excellent response. Try not to be pedantic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can do many basic things that will improve your life today. See what it is that kind expect of you and make the changes that are necessary. Don't take any risks whatsoever.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those people with a tremendous amount of energy, which is fine, but it must be directed into proper channels. Then there can be much success as well as personal happiness throughout life. Anything that has to do with selling, inventing, modernizing is excellent, and college may or may not be necessary here. Give the proper amount of ethical and religious training and supervise the diet carefully early in life.

Monday

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very bad day and evening to take any chances whatever, whether on the highway or in any sort of disagreement with another. No one would be the winner and a continuing feud could cause much discord in the future as well. Do your most important job in a calm and poised manner and sidestep any contentious situations that do arise to upset you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to live up to the Golden Rule today and particularly do not make sarcastic remarks that could upset others. Use caution when out driving. Taking risks in almost anything could be very bad now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Impress those who count with the fact that you know how to handle money and are not extravagant. Help others also not to make mistakes where money is concerned. Have a more conciliatory attitude toward mate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) This is not a good day to concentrate on social activities, so get busy on whatever is of a productive nature. Avoid disappointments. See what can be done about improving health and charm.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you contact the right people you are now able to get the information you have been seeking and then use it wisely. Certain situations open up which are good and which will bring success later.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Stop being so proud and ask good friends for the data you need and they will give it to you. Getting into some group affair could prove most enjoyable. Dress in your own inimitable style and be at your best.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to be free and easy where your reputation is concerned, or you come a cropper over practically nothing. Study paper for ideas, articles you may need. Take advantage of bargains.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to converse with persons of great wisdom who can help you tap the source of your own, so that you may become more successful, happy. Get at letter writing in P.M. Stop procrastinating.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you sit quietly and listen to the voice of your intuition, you find you get right answers to perplexing problems. You have to use more tact if you want to have a happier relationship with mate. Take time for fun after lunch.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your associates hold the key to your future success, so be sure to cooperate with them fully now. State your aims, views honestly. You need more recreation, so plan for it early.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day to show some special thoughtfulness for those who have shown you much loyalty. Plan how to make the new week's work easier and more profitable, efficient. Get rid of antiquated methods.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you use that smile more and your happy disposition, you find you can make this a very delightful day. Don't take any risks, though, for they could be very expensive. Get back home fairly early.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Think more about your family's needs than of your own today, since they are quite worried and require your help. Show that you are very devoted. Invite friends in and cheer things up a bit.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people with a great deal of energy that needs proper channeling early in life, otherwise much trouble and mischief will be the result of things done quite innocently. There are many fine talents in this chart and therefore the education should be well-planned so that the most can be made of them during the lifetime. An extra language or two should be learned, since there is apt to be much travel here.

ABC Gridiron Trio Hot Item

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —No doubt about it — the only new television series that has people talking about it the morning after is ABC-TV's Monday night pro football game.

One of the reasons, of course, is the contest themselves. The opener, with Joe Namath and the New York Jets against the Cleveland Browns, was full of explosive action, a fan's dream.

And on the third Monday, as another example, also offered a colorful spectacle with the sizzling Detroit Lions against the Chicago Bears.

For myself, I can't imagine switching over to any regular video series when a good, live pro football game is on.

But what is really making ABC-TV's gridiron contests talked about, aside from the action itself, is the trio of announcers and commentators, one of the best sports broadcasting groups in memo-

They are Keith Jackson, who does the straight anchor man-type announcing; Don Meredith, the former Dallas Cowboys quarterback, who lends against the Chicago Bears. As Cosell, the gadfly sports critic who is never, never, never at a loss for words or opinions. Singly, they would attract attention simply for their individual styles. Together, there is special chemistry working for them. They are a hot item.

Opinion is what makes video come alive, gets it away from the computerized voices that seem to emanate pompously from Mt. Olympus.

Anyone who watched the superb debut of the "Civilization" series Wednesday night on non-commercial television knows how stimulating a single individual attitude can be. For there was one man, British art historian Kenneth Clark, giving his views of the achievements of Western culture. You can catch him doing it for 12 more film clips of other pro games weeks.

Back in sportscasting, another man with opinions, ex-baseball pitcher Jim Bouton, who wrote a controversial best-selling diary about the 1969 season, "Ball Four," has joined ABC-TV's local New York station. It will be intriguing if the network has plans for him.

Well, anyway, we have Jackson, Meredith and Cosell, whom Bouton calls "just another pretty face." And we have those terrific Monday night football games without the babbling juvenile idiocy of some other gushing athletes-turned-announcers.

And we don't get reverential pro football coverage as though it were a coronation or something. And there is none of the trivial, endless nonsense of halftime marching bands either because (except for a technical problem last Monday) we get film clips of other pro games instead. No wonder people are watching — and talking next morning.

Bridge

Old Y and Z Dig Jacoby Modern

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Y and Z, the old auction bridge experts, had decided that a contract was a pretty good game. Z said, "THIS JACOBY MODERN is sensible. I like my partners to raise me as much as they can and I like to decide about going on without being forced to do so."

Then he took his accustomed seat in the South position and proceeded to open with one heart.

Y, sitting North, looked over his cards carefully. Here was a good chance to give a limit raise but his hand looked a trifle too good to settle for less than game. It was also a trifle too good for a semipreemptive jump to four but Y had learned about limit raises and was going to give one. He bid four hearts and that was all Z needed. He bid slam.

Z won the spade lead in dummy and called for the jack of hearts. East covered with the king. Z won with the ace and went back to dummy with the king of clubs and finessed East's 10. After that start, it was just a matter of mopping up the remaining tricks.

A brash young kibitzer whispered, "What a lucky play. Doesn't the old man know that he should have led a low heart from dummy?"

Z's ears are still pretty good. He turned to the young man and said, "When I was a very young man, I learned the correct way to play every card combination. With 10 trumps and missing king-10-small, the correct play is to lead the honor. If the second player shows out, you let fourth hand take his king immediately. If second hand plays low, you finesse. If second hand covers, you play your ace and pick up the 10-spot later on. If I had led a low trump from dummy and played my queen, I would have lost a trick to East. This way, I made an overtrick without risking my contract."

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

IT SEEMS WE have a reverse "domino theory" working in Broadway East.

The old domino theory, of course, states that if Vietnam falls, Cambodia is next, then Laos until eventually the guys with the black silk jammies are sitting in your backyard.

Broadway East, to the contrary, is a building project but as in the domino theory one thing depends on another.

Any keen-eyed observer who doesn't drown in the mud of the "new" Broadway, can see that there is virtually no building going on except for municipal projects.

Private money is going uptown by the carload, even in these times of so-called tight money. There must be some reason for that, after all, we have all kinds of space downtown.

The answer is, of course, the space . . . where people used to live and walk around the streets and shop and spend money. They do that uptown. They don't do it much anymore downtown.

Thus, the reverse domino theory. It would seem obvious that in order to build up downtown something has to be built first. But what? The Garraghan administration labored mightily on that vexing problem and brought forth a city hall.

The line of propaganda went that developers would flock to the downtown area once city hall was a sure thing because the city would be graphically showing its faith in the area by building down there.

The only flocks we've seen are the pigeons from uptown, sizing up their new quarters at city hall.

THE UDC PROJECT is the key. It will bring people. With people come the services, markets, cleaners, drug stores and with that, more people . . . the domino theory in reverse.

Unfortunately, the UDC project is in serious doubt. Actually, it always was. As one UDC official told us early in the game last June, "We take on the tough ones." He didn't figure on this one being almost impossible.

At first UDC figured the major obstacle would be the terrain. City Hall figured in that too, or as one guy from UDC put it, "They just plopped it right in the middle of everything with no thought to what would surround it."

But of course that's water under the bridge and there's no sense worrying about it now. The problem with the UDC site is that there's reportedly water under ground, lots of it. It makes for shaky ground.

The whole Broadway East project is on shaky ground if that UDC project doesn't make it. Right now it looks grim but UDC has some of the best architectural brains in the state working with them. Maybe they can come up with something.

If not, city officials will be back to the domino game, literally. There won't be much more that they can do.

SIGN OF THE TIMES—The political season is full upon us with signs springing up all over the county. The billboard signs aren't too bad . . . with the laughing candidate, or the angry candidate, or the happy candidate or whatever. The ones that get us are the little signs on trees or phone poles.

They don't really say anything but they do a nice job of messing up the trees. Now what was that most of the boys say about the environment? . . . There oughta be a law.

JOHNSON REVISITED—Frankly, we weren't too impressed with Charles "Mike" Johnson, the Democrat's candidate for coroner, when he first burst on the scene with his acceptance speech at the party's nominating convention in March.

We mentioned it to Mike the other day and he informed us that that was his first speech, ever. No wonder. How many of us leave them in the aisles after our first speeches?

Johnson sounds a lot better these days. He seems to know what he's talking about and he's serious about campaigning. He's just not in this thing "to fill the ticket."

But then, there's Art Chipp, the incumbent. The coroner is rounding out his 21st year in office and has to be considered a heavy favorite for reelection.

THE BOMB—John Heitzman, First Ward Democratic alderman, whom we fondly refer to as "The Bomb" (for his sometimes surprising moves) confirmed reports that he is moving out of his home ward into the 13th.

Heitzman's father, Cornelius, died recently and left his home on Hoffman Street to his son, John who is making arrangements to move from his present home on Browning Terrace.

The move, of course, piqued our political curiosity but Heitzman quickly squelched any rumors by emphatically stating that he did not intend to run against 13th Ward Republican incumbent Bernie Sims in the 1971 election.

THE LIMELIGHT—The post of alderman-at-large is a strange position in city government. The man does not vote on city affairs, except in case of ties, which are rare since there are an odd number of aldermen (no offense).

A guy can really get lost in the shuffle unless he's outspoken. Bob Gallo, the present alderman-at-large, used to be when he was a Ninth Ward alderman. What a set of lungs! What a set of feet! Gallo could stand there and talk for hours.

Now he just sits there in his president's chair fingering his new Countess Mara tie. In fact, as far as we can remember, the last time Gallo made a public statement was on Jan. 1 when he was sworn in for another term. Who can ever forget those words . . . "I do."

So Frank Koenig, the mayor, who gets his picture in the paper all the time (Mayor declares carunkle prevention week) invites his buddy, Bobby, up to city hall. Bobby gets his picture in the paper . . . four or five times in a row.

The citizenry is satisfied. Their alderman-at-large is alive and well. And he's still best of buddies with the mayor.

DINNER TIME—Just a late reminder. The Republicans are holding their county dinner at the Granit tomorrow night. (Now there's a LATE reminder). Likewise, the city Democrats are holding their annual dinner at the Gov. Clinton next Saturday night. Featured speaker is William Vanden Heuvel who may not be famous but is supposed to be forceful.

Students Blast Grand Jury Report Urge Restraint at Kent State

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — The president of Kent State University, Robert I. White, has asked its 21,000 students to take in stride a grand jury report which exonerated Ohio National Guardsmen and criticized the university for disorders that left four dead and nine wounded.

"We have long known that the grand jury report would create problems," White said Friday on closed-circuit television a few hours after release of the report. It accused university administrators of surrendering leadership to dissident students and faculty members.

The special state grand jury indicted 25 unidentified persons. None was a guardsman, said Special Prosecutor Robert Bal-yeat who directed the month-long investigation in which 300 persons testified.

Portage County Sheriff Joseph Hagedus said he did not expect any indictments to be served before Monday.

White assured the "25 unidentified defendants" that there will be "full judicial process. I am sure every legal safeguard will be observed."

White told the student body: "The May tragedy will be with us for a long time. The strain of the successive reports, investigation, discussion and the like must be surmounted one-by-one in stride."

White said he was forbidden by court order from commenting on the report or indictments, but said, "I appear before you rather well battered."

The jury said the administration had constantly yielded to demands from a segment of the student and faculty bodies "to the extent that it no longer runs the university."

The executive committee of the Kent State faculty senate issued a statement saying it was dismayed by the oversimplification of the issues involved by the inaccuracies and exclusions of certain information and by the grand jury's evident failure to understand the nature of a university in a free society.

The committee said, "It is simply not true that 'all the conditions that led to the May tragedy still exist,' as reported by the jury, and said, 'If it was appropriate for the grand jury to discuss events after May 4 (when the deaths occurred), why did it not include a note of the extensive efforts of students, faculty, administration and townspeople to create an atmosphere of nonviolence on the campus and in the community?'"

The committee also said the jury failed "to understand that Kent State University's speaker policy is an open one consistent with the policy of great universities across the country and of our nation which guarantees the right of all points of view to be heard."

Craig Morgan, Kent student body president, said he contacted attorney William Kunstler in Bermuda where the defense attorney in the Chicago 7 riot trial is vacationing and Kunstler agreed to coordinate a defense program for those indicted.

Morgan said he called Kunstler after receiving a telephone call from Long Island University telling him how to contact the attorney. He said the caller identified himself as a student body leader and said efforts were being made to collect funds at New York area campuses for the defense of those indicted.

Three hours after the report was issued, Yippies held a peaceful rally on the Kent campus, six miles from the Portage County Courthouse in Ravenna where the jury met.

"There's a festival of death going on in Ravenna," Kent Yippie vice president, Jerry Fersky, told some 1,500 students at the rally. "They thought that by killing four students in May it would be all over. It's just beginning."

The jury of 12 men and three women, mostly middle-aged Portage County residents, held that National Guardsmen fired their weapons in "the honest and sincere belief . . . that they would suffer serious bodily injury had they not done so."

The jury said of the guardsmen: "They are not subject to criminal prosecution under the laws of this state for any death or injury resulting therefrom."

It said that if the students had heeded the guard's orders to disperse from a rally, the tragedy probably would have been avoided.

In Washington, the Justice Department, which conducted its own investigation of the shooting, said it was "evaluating" the grand jury report. Ohio Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown, whose office coordinated the probe ordered by Gov. James A. Rhodes, said the jury "did a remarkably adequate job."

But parents of the slain students were highly critical. "I have lost faith in justice in America," said Martin Scheuer of suburban Youngstown, whose 20-year-old daughter, Sandy Lee, was one of the four slain.

"You mean you can get away with murder in this country?" asked Bernard Miller of Plainfield, N.Y., whose 20-year-old son Jeffrey was killed.

James F. Ahern, New Haven, Conn., police chief and a member of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, said the jury's conclusion that the guardsmen acted justifiably was "inconsistent with the facts" presented to the commission.

States wants of the alleged violations.

Rogers did not ask about Soviet intentions concerning a missile submarine base in Cuba, they added. Some U.S. intelligence has indicated the Russians may be setting up such a base. Rogers could raise the issue Monday.

Earlier in the day, the U.S. effort to get Arab-Israeli peace talks going suffered another setback from a strongly anti-U.S. speech by Egypt's foreign minister, Mahmoud Riad.

Riad accused the United States of wrecking its own peace initiative by siding with Israel against the Arabs. Heatedly replying to Riad's General Assembly address, U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost charged the Egyptian with raising new obstacles to a negotiated settlement.

The officials said Rogers did not ask Gromyko for a Suez missile rollback, as Israel has demanded as a price for attending the talks, and they said he did not specify what kind of "rectification" the United

U.S., Russia Meet at U.N.; Heat Still on Trouble Spots

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The first of two meetings here between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko failed to remove U.S. concern over Kremlin intent on some major international issues.

This was reported by U.S. officials early today following a four-hour, dine-and-talk session between the Big Two foreign ministers that lasted until nearly midnight Friday.

The Middle East peace effort and alleged Soviet troop violations, improvement of conditions for West Berlin, and President Nixon's latest proposal for peace in Indochina were among the items discussed.

"I'd describe the atmosphere as businesslike, not unfriendly, spirited," U.S. spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said afterward. A follow-up meeting is scheduled Monday night.

U.S. strategists have been concerned that the Soviet Union, despite Nixon's "Era of Negotiations" policy, may be veering toward a tough, cold war line.

They have been particularly upset by what they term blatant Soviet violation of the U.S.-sponsored Mideast truce by putting new missiles into the Suez standstill zone.

U.S. officials said Rogers did not show Gromyko U.S. aerial photos of the new missile installations. They also said Gromyko denied any Soviet violations, as Moscow has previously.

Earlier in the day, the U.S. effort to get Arab-Israeli peace talks going suffered another setback from a strongly anti-U.S. speech by Egypt's foreign minister, Mahmoud Riad.

Riad accused the United States of wrecking its own peace initiative by siding with Israel against the Arabs. Heatedly replying to Riad's General Assembly address, U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost charged the Egyptian with raising new obstacles to a negotiated settlement.

The officials said Rogers did not ask Gromyko for a Suez missile rollback, as Israel has demanded as a price for attending the talks, and they said he did not specify what kind of "rectification" the United States wants of the alleged violations.

Rogers did not ask about Soviet intentions concerning a missile submarine base in Cuba, they added. Some U.S. intelligence has indicated the Russians may be setting up such a base. Rogers could raise the issue Monday.

Economic Officials Huddle With Nixon

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — President Nixon's five top economic officials and six of the country's biggest businessmen met today to explore uncertainties of a slack economy, continuing inflation, and the widening paralysis of the automobile strike.

The discussion was scheduled for a closed session of the fall meeting of the Business Council attended by heads of about 100 major corporations.

One of the industry participants, James M. Roche, is board chairman of the strike-bound General Motors Corp. Some of his fellow industrialists here believe the month-old strike, if prolonged more than a few weeks, could turn the budding economic recovery into a further decline by the end of the year.

The government participants included the entire "quadrant"—the economic high command made up of Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy, Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board, Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and budget chief George P. Shultz—plus Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans.

Industry speakers besides Roche were Ellisor L. Hazard, chairman of Continental Can Co., New York; Ralph Lazarus, chairman of Federated Department Stores Inc., Cincinnati; S. D. Bechtel Jr., president of Bechtel Corp., a San Francisco construction firm; Donald C. Burnham, chairman of Westinghouse Electric Corp.; and Roger Milliken, president of Deering Milliken Inc., Spartanburg, S.C.

The Business Council announced the nine members of its White House liaison committee, headed by Council Chairman Fred J. Borch, chairman of General Electric Co., also were invited to participate in a White House session Sunday.

One of the government participants—Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget—told reporters Friday night the economy is "on the threshold of a healthy expansion."

The budget director declined to comment on congressional estimates that the federal budget deficit—one of the potential inflationary forces—would reach the $12.5 billion level by the end of fiscal 1971. But Shultz conceded indirectly there will be more red ink than the $1.3 billion estimate issued by the administration last May.

A reliable guess is impossible at this time, he explained, since Congress has passed only half the 1971 appropriation bills, has exceeded Nixon's requests for some of the spending programs, and has not yet acted on any of the presidential tax proposals.

Audie Murphy Wins Acquittal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tears filled the eyes of Audie Murphy, the actor who was World War II's most decorated soldier, after a jury declared him innocent of assault and battery charges. The 45-year-old Murphy had been accused in connection with a dispute with dog trainer David Gofstein, 51, last May 18.

The argument assertedly took place over a dog training fee. Gofstein asked of Murphy's girlfriend, during an alleged altercation, Gofstein said, a gun was fired, but no one was injured.

Murphy denied all accusations and said he was not in possession of a weapon.

They're Thinking Snow in October

WITH A BEARSKIN looking down from above and logs waiting in place below, the stone fireplace in the new ski shop promises to be a center of attention all winter long.

There are probably five skiers to every skin diver here in our Catskills, and that's only the beginning of the area's "Think Snow" fixation.

Up in Phoenicia, a Catskill village far removed from clouds of smog, screeches of brakes and the glittering neon of go-go nightclubs, the style and flavor of Scandinavia has just been added to the area ski scene.

Launched in Phoenicia last Monday with a traditional Swedish Smorgasbord party was a Scandinavian Ski Village, as beautiful as any Alpine retreat and including one of the largest ski shops in the Northeast.

Log Building Complex

Invited guests at the cocktails and smorgasbord party (including a special press bus from Manhattan) were impressed with the charming country shop and future expansion plans of the soon-to-be complex. Three stunning log buildings on Route 28, just south of Phoenicia and just a short schuss from Belleayre, Hunter, Windham and other area snow resorts, will cater to all skiers' needs and hopefully become a center for year round vacationing.

First off, the three-level ski equipment, fashion and rental shop has already been completed on the site and is stocked in profuse abundance with goodies galore. The first adjoining motel units have been opened with more to follow, and an elegant and separate restaurant-supper club is promised some time in November.

For Ulster County, then, a

Scandinavian Village that will not only fill the outer needs of skiers with everything from boots to hats, but a new showplace that will also serve the inner man and woman with gourmet Swedish and Norwegian dishes. When the Northern Lights Restaurant building is unveiled, diners will find it surrounded by a flagstone terrace for outdoor dining and dancing in warmer weather. Meanwhile, you'll be able to enjoy lunch, apres ski snacks and dinners at the restaurant from November until spring, with music and dancing slated for the weekends.

Phoenicia's Ski Village was built by Scandinavian Ski Shops, which also has stores in Manhattan, Garden City, and Scarsdale. The new vacation center occupies a 12-acre site under the peaks of Tremper Mountain; is aimed at serving skiers where they ski.

A Ski Season First

For Scandinavian Shops owner Harry Vallin, who has been outfitting skiers for some 22 years in his other stores, Monday's fete was the official opening of the 1970-71 winter. This first "Apres Ski" Party of the ski season marked the end of months of hard work by Vallin and most of his staff from other shops in the chain. They spent the past spring and summer putting up the three buildings and, architecturally, they created a charming masterpiece.

The buildings have the typical rustic look of a Scandinavian

FEMININE INTEREST in skiing has grown tremendously along with male enthusiasm in recent years, and Phoenicia's new Ski Village has a special section just for ladies' hats and scarves. You'll find it right next to the big stone fireplace.

Fall 1970: Something Else

Botanists will explain the Catskills' fall color display as a chemical reaction — a logical and national result of the season's shorter hours of sunlight — but for those of us who live here, it is something else, a never-to-be-forgotten spectrum of magnificent scenery.

From the Hudson Highlands to the spectacular blue peaks of the Catskills, the woods and valleys are transformed into a blaze of red, gold, orange and russet. Summer's frenetic pace is a memory only, and the changing season has brought an essence of relaxation.

Overlook, Slide and Hurley Mountain are at their best with rolling slopes a blaze of autumn color interspersed with the dark green of the evergreens. A chairlift ride at Belleayre or Hunter provides a panoramic view of the colors, and a boat cruise on the Hudson provides color close-ups touched with burnished crimson and bright yellow.

Ulster in the fall is an adventure, a delight, a beautiful blaze of color. Spectacle abounds along the twisting mountain roads, in the quiet countryside dotted with sheer cliffs, on driftwood strewn beaches. Spired churches framed by blue skies and fleecy white clouds; golden fields flowing down to the river with a mellow sense of ripeness as a reminder of the old farm days; ducks and geese in V-formation veering south overhead.

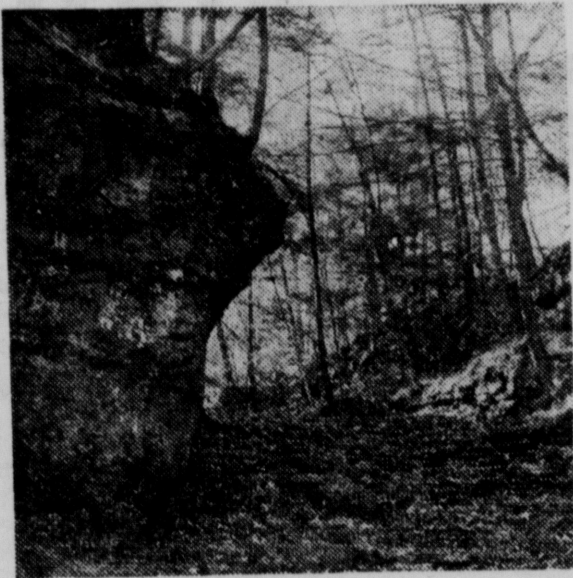

Like monumental sculptures, the Catskills stand in glowing brilliance. And the very clearness and crispness of the air brings into focus their form and color as bright shades creep across and invade their colorama that is ours in this loveliest of seasons...when a billion leaves have changed their shades and pumpkins, apples and cider betoken a harvest of plenty. (T.G.)

. . . fall on the farm — a serene, ripe time of harvest . . .

. . . few trips are more pleasurable than those up our Catskills ski lifts in fall, when cool breezes and breathtaking views of the spectacular countryside are the reward . . .

FROM THE KEELER COLLECTION of prints and memorabilia comes this beautifully nostalgic rendering of the State Street facade of Albany's long-time famed Keeler's Restaurant. Done in watercolor in 1904 by Walter H. VanGuysling, it will be included in the Keeler-Sadler Exhibition slated at Albany Institute of History and Art. The show opens Monday, Oct. 19, at 8:30 p.m., with a preview and illustrated lecture, "To See History Is to Believe History," by Dr. Louis L. Tucker, New York State Historian. The public is invited to the opening night preview, lecture and reception, and to view this rare exhibit during the weeks following the opening.

Oils and Collages In October Show

The oils and collages of Sally Jay Okun are on exhibit at the Medical Arts Building in Cold Spring during the month of October. Her work has hung in many jury shows, including that of the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield, Mass. and the annual regional exhibition at the Avanti Gallery in New York City.

Artist Okun's awareness of current trends in art has enabled her to paint in varied styles. Although her recent work is abstract, her strong feeling for natural forms is always apparent. Equally at home in either medium, she values collage for its immediate clarification of the relationship of shapes to each other, and oil painting for its beauty of color and richness of texture.

Sally Jay Okun has studied at New York University and the Art Students League. She is a resident of North Highlands and New York City and a charter member of the Garrison Art Center.

After a Scenic Ride The Vanderlyn Show

It matters little that more people travel today by jet plane than by bus. Because, every once in a while, along comes a bus trip offering such a fascinating destination that airports lose their glamor.

Such a trip would seem to be the one that will be taking Ulsterites to the Art Gallery of the State University of New York at Binghamton on the last Sunday of this month.

At the end of the line, after a scenic fall drive up Route 17, those making the trip will see the finest exhibition of the work of famed artist John Vanderlyn ever presented. Indeed, it is only the second show of all-Vanderlyn works assembled since his death in 1852.

A Native Kingstonian

Vanderlyn, as most Kingstonians know, holds a place in history as one of our most illustrious native sons. An internationally acclaimed artist, he painted portraits of George Washington and other colonial greats, and was a protege of Aaron Burr, who discovered him here in Kingston. He also received from Napoleon Bonaparte in 1809 a gold medal for his masterful painting of "Marcus Viewing the Ruins of Carthage" — and this canvas, on loan from its permanent home in San Francisco — is included in the Binghamton show. Also on view are works from the Metropolitan Museum, and others loaned by private collectors.

So excellent is the show and so sure to arouse local interest that the bus trip on Oct. 25 to the upstate campus gallery is being co-sponsored by the American Heritage Committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Wiltwyck Chapter, Kingston, and the YWCA locally. The bus will leave the YWCA here on Sunday morning at 9:30. Reservations should be made as soon as possible through the "Y" by calling 338-6844.

Once arrived on the campus, those making the DAR and "Y" trip will enjoy a guided tour by Michael Mikowich, director of the art gallery at SUNY in Binghamton, and be feted at a coffee hour. Available at the show will be a stunning catalogue on Vanderlyn and the exhibit, prepared by Kenneth C. Lindsay, under a grant from the New York State Council of the Arts.

Herbert Cutler, director of Kingston's Senate House Museum, where a permanent Vanderlyn display is housed, has already visited the Binghamton show; recommends it highly.

Tempo, too, recommends the show and the Oct. 25 bus trip. And, should you be unable to make the trip on that Sunday, you might want to plan to drive to Binghamton before the exhibit closes on Nov. 9.

OCC Open House

Orange County Community College is inviting all area residents to attend its 20th anniversary Open House on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18.

Two decades of college memorabilia will be displayed to the public during the 2 to 5 p.m. event at the South Street campus in Middletown. Also on exhibit will be plans and models of OCCC's $15-million expansion plan.

Visitors will be able to tour the college's 11 academic and administrative buildings, confer with OCCC faculty and staff members, review classroom exhibits and equipment, attend an art show, witness special television programming, and inspect the college's 12½-ton mobile unit.

Extras Get Work

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Director Roger Vadim hired 1,250 extras to be used in a football sequence in "Pretty Maids All in a Row" starring Rock Hudson.

More than 2,000 persons attended last year's OCCC Open House.

"The beauty of our campus is at its greatest in mid-October," president Robert Novak said, "and I'm sure visitors will learn that the friendliness of the college's faculty and students is one of the keys to OCCC's success."

College faculty members and administrators will be in their offices from 2 to 4 p.m. to meet parents of OCCC students and others attending the day's events.

The Middletown Art Group will hold its annual show of oils and watercolors in the Orange Hall lounge.

Rip Van Winkle RRs

Anyone who grew up with the sound of train whistles in his ears will want this new book to take him back to the days of the mighty locomotives. Even better, as far as local readers are concerned, it's a nostalgic history of the abandoned railroads here in the Catskill area.

It's "Rip Van Winkle Railroads," by William F. Helmer, and it includes stories of the Canajoharie & Catskill, Catskill Mountain, Cairo, Otis Elevating and Catskill & Tannersville railroads. Profusely illustrated, the volume also delves into connecting and rival transportation lines—the Stony Clove & Catskill Mountain and Kaaterskill railroads and two fondly remembered water transports—the Catskill Evening Lines and those Hudson River Day Line steamboat companies.

Helmer's book is the result of five years of research during which he used the facilities of the Greene County Historical Society and interviewed former employees of the railroad companies covered in the volume.

Authored O&W Book

The author, who is chairman of the English Department at State University College, Morrisville, has spent the past 15 years investigating the history of New York's defunct railways, an endeavor backed and aided by the Research Foundation of

State University of New York. Helmer is also the author of "O&W: The Long Life and Slow Death of the New York, Ontario & Western Railway." He also contributed a historical sketch to a reprinting of "A Catskill Souvenir: Scenes on the Ulster & Delaware Railroad," published by Hope Farm Press, Cornwallville.

The section in Helmer's new book on the Canajoharie & Catskill Railroad, especially, should have vast appeal. The line has been the subject of much speculation because so few records have survived its long ago demise in 1842.

In addition, many of the later companies have never received a thorough historical treatment since the cessation of operations in 1919. Helmer has unearthed previously undiscovered materials which have been incorporated into his book. And, with the cooperation of many local collectors, has been able to include a vast number of scarce and unusual illustrations.

"Rip Van Winkle Railroads" is scheduled for publication on Nov. 1. It will be available by mail, telephone orders or a visit to the Hope Farm Bookshop, Strong Road, Cornwallville, N. Y. 12418 (telephone 239-4745). The price will be $7.50, including the Hope Farm Press publication price of $6.75, plus 34 cent sales tax.

Order your copy now and you'll "hear that train a-comin'" as soon as "Rip Van Winkle Railroads" rolls off the press and down the track into your mailbox.

They're Thinking

farm house, with thick pine log walls, hand-split shingle roofs, and peaked dormers. The cheerful Little Laplander skier symbols, and the orange trim colors and carved wooden furniture used in all Scandinavian stores give a distinctive style to the new buildings.

Vallin says the entire setting was designed to carry out the Lapland theme. And Tempo would have to agree that it does so beautifully. A wishing well in front of the main shop will have running water and the telephone company booth is a miniature version of the other log buildings.

The ski shop is big and it burgeons with a wide selection of ski equipment, including more than 500 skis by dozens of manufacturers, 25 different brands of boots in all sizes, dozens of apres ski boot styles, and an exclusive collection of winter fashions (clothing, sweaters and accessories) for the slopes and lodge.

On the lowest floor, you'll find rental and repair shops where more than 500 pair of Head and Kniessel skis and buckle boots with safety bindings wait for skiers on their way to the mountains. A wide front porch with sloping overhanging roofs leads to the main level with its big stone fireplace, rustic benches and showcases for sweaters, turtlenecks, mittens, goggles, jewelry and other attractive accessories. There's a wing for sale and fitting of skis, boots and bindings; another for the latest in parkas, jump suits, stretch pants, and ski and apres ski fashions of all kinds. Trek up to the top floor and you'll find separate fur boutique rooms for children's togs and cross-country equipment.

The shop's companion building is the Laplander Motel, in the same style and with hand hewn pine logs, steep pitched roofs and spacious rooms. One section has been completed; another will be ready by November.

The next motel building should blend well with the overall "farm house" look. It'll be a four-story structure in the shape of a silo, and its 12 units will have rounded walls for spectacular views of the surrounding mountains.

By summer the Village will boast swimming pools, tennis and volleyball courts. And since its acreage runs to the Esopus, it will offer fishing and hunting. All in all, a year-round vacation resort, catering to all vacation needs.

The new complex offers proof that interest in skiing has grown tremendously in the recent past, and that businesses catering to the sport have to keep growing to serve the enormous number of snow enthusiasts.

It's also a bright new addition to the Ulster scene and Tempo is happy to say "Valkommen aboard!"

Go up and have a look at this new ski village and, while you're there, have your skis serviced, your boots fitted, your bindings installed, your safety releases adjusted — or just go and dig the whole charming scene and all those pretties on display.

NO PAINFUL DECISION between mini or midi need be made between fashions offered at Scandinavian. The choice is all one way when it comes to those yummy Norwegian sweaters, colorful turtlenecks, and warm as toast parkas.

Bennett Lecture Has 'Wig' Author

The English department of Bennett College, Millbrook, will present the second of its Codey lectures on Monday, Oct. 19. The speaker will be the young novelist Charles Wright, who will discuss the novel and read from his own writings. Wright's talk, to which the public is invited, will take place in Carroll Hall Lounge, beginning at 8 p.m.

Wright is the author of "The Messenger" and "The Wig," both of which were well received by critics. He has been a visiting lecturer at the University of California at Davis but now lives in New York and is a frequent contributor to the Village Voice.

"FACE OF A CITY" is the title of this striking yet muted photograph by Kingstonian Arthur "Mickey" Mathis. He is currently showing his work, along with the fashion illustrations of his wife, at the Artcraft Visual Center here.

He Uses His Camera to Record 'Sketches'

During the month of October, Artcraft Visual Center at 694 Broadway is showing the photography of Arthur "Mickey" Mathis, and the fashion illustrations of his wife, Geraldine.

The talented young couple has opened a studio at 288 Wall Street where they work together in producing visuals for numerous businesses and publications throughout the area. Artcraft's exhibition of their work underscores the professional and creative a sort of notebook for recording as to technical skill and sensitive interpretation.

Mathis attended Kingston High School where he majored in art. Always interested in photography, he went on to study in New York City, eventually opening his own studio there where he did freelance work for such major publications as Vogue and Ebony magazines. But he and his wife visualized the opening of a studio in Kingston where they might work together. That hope has now been fully realized.

While in New York City, Mathis exhibited his work in numerous gallery shows, and, on his return to Kingston, at the Lion's Exposition. Reflecting on his feeling about the camera as an art medium, he says: "To me, the camera is a sort of notebook for recording sketches made in time and space; it is also an admirable instrument for seizing upon life as it presents itself. Photography appears to be a simple matter, but it demands powers of concentration combined with mental enthusiasm and discipline. We must take greater care than ever not to allow ourselves to be separated from the real world and humanity."

Mathis also believes that: "Without the participation of intuition, sensibility and understanding, photography is nothing. All these facilities must be closely harnessed, and it is then that the capture of a rare picture becomes a real physical delight."

In his view, "photography has not changed since its origins, except in technical aspects. It is an instantaneous operation, both sensory and intellectual — an expression of the world in visual terms, and also a perpetual quest and interrogation. It is at one and the same time the recognition of a fact in a fraction of a second, and the rigorous arrangement of the forms visually perceived which give to that fact expression and significance."

This is an exhibit that should be of wide interest. The public is cordially invited to stop in at the gallery and become acquainted with the work of these two local artists.

Gallery Courses Include Visits To Art Studios

Kingston Gallery of Fine Arts & Crafts, 59 St. James Street, has announced registration dates for art instruction classes for both children and adults in oils, acrylics and other media.

Heifetz on TV

Noted violinist Jascha Heifetz is scheduled for a rare television appearance in an NBC special next spring. The program will be taped in Paris.

Series for Elke

Elke Sommer, Germany's contribution to movie sex symbols will star in a television series for Warner Bros., title and story line still to be determined.

The courses, which will be taught by professional and well qualified Woodstock and area artists, will consist of one two hour sessions weekly for 10 weeks starting early in November. The tuition for adults will be $50.00 and for children $40.00.

As presently planned, there will be sessions for both beginners and advanced students in the adult classes and the children's course will be set up for comprehensive instruction covering all levels of development. As part of the course, visits to working artist's studios and possible trips to art galleries in New York City are planned. Upon completion of the course a special showing of students' efforts will be held in the gallery, here in Kingston.

The registration dates are: Sunday, Oct. 18 and Sunday, Oct. 25, from 2 to 5 p.m., at the Kingston Gallery, 59 St. James Street. Since enrollment will be limited, those interested should make arrangements as early as possible.

Delano's Captures the Spirit of an Earlier Age

EYE-CATCHING ARRANGEMENT at Delano's Art Gallery, 268 Fair Street, utilizes a battered but unbowed wheelbarrow out of the past as a pedestal for a recent painting by Ronald Hicenbotham. Wheelbarrow was once used by workers in a local brickyard in the days when that industry burgeoned in our area. It makes a unique frame for Hicenbotham's canvas of a scene that might well have come from the same era in its nostalgic reminder of old stone walls and quaint farm buildings.

DUTCH HERITAGE for which our area is known is reflected in this typical Holland scene. Visitors who attended last Sunday's day-long Open House at Kingston's Delano's Gallery were attracted to the large 4x6 canvas, a vintage work by an artist who signed it simply as "Wellmann." Painted on marine plywood, it captures the picturesque color of a waterside flower market when wooden shoes and sailing ships were still in vogue. The current show at Delano's will remain on view for several weeks. (Freeman photos by Haines)

The Sound of Music Arrives in November

If you're typical of most theatre and movie-goers, you've probably found yourself humming "Climb Every Mountain" or "My Favorite Things" on one occasion or another over the past few years.

Those were the hit tunes, along with "You Are Sixteen" and "The Sound of Music" from the long-run musical also known as "The Sound of Music."

Now audiences can look forward to hearing them all over again when Kingston's Coach House Players present the hit show at J. Watson Bailey School Auditorium here on Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

Rehearsals Well Underway

Rehearsals are progressing at a brisk pace on the Coach House production of the Rodgers and Hammerstein hit—and the talented actors, under the direction of Bill Skilling, aren't the only Players' members who are buzzing around like busy bees these October days and nights.

With "Sound of Music" time looming ever nearer, props, lighting, set building, costumes and publicity are also well underway. A musical of this magnitude is always a big undertaking, and all Coach House members play a part, whether they take to the stage or work behind the scenes.

Featured in the joyous, geared for the whole family show will be Betty Lindsay as Maria, Ray Caddy as Capt. Von Trapp, Will LaVoie as Max Detweiler, and June Scherer as Elsa Schraeder.

RAY CADDY will play Capt. vonTrapp, the father of a talented brood, in "The Sound of Music."

BETTY LINDSAY has been cast as Maria; will sing several of the hit tunes in the upcoming musical.

BILL LaVOIE has the role of Max Detweiler in the Rodgers and Hammerstein show due in November.

PLACES TO DINE & DANCE

Special for 'Duke'

John Wayne is slated for a Nov. 29 special from 8:30 to 10 p.m. on NBC. "Swing Out, Sweet Land" is the title of the show, which takes a lighthearted look at American history from Jamestown in 1607 through the beginning of the 20th century. Many top stars will participate.

First in 14 Years

Mary Livingstone will make her first television appearance in 14 years with husband Jack Benny on the latter's NBC special Nov. 16. Before 1956, she appeared frequently on Benny's radio and video programs.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

No, Woodstock's "Joyous Lake" at 42 Mill Hill Road is NOT a nudist colony. Rather, it's Ronald Merians' answer to frozen TV Dinners and grub-in-a-can . . . an organic restaurant and probably, the only one within radius of New York City.

Usually, anything that smacks of "health food" is tagged "square" or "faddist." Yet, within past year—since activation of ecology—two health-food stores sprouted in New Paltz and two in Woodstock, while Kingston's own Colonial Health on North Front Street enlarged, not once but twice. And now, by gum, another breakthrough . . . an organic eatin' house.

Built from scratch, (previous building burned out) Merians rebuilt ruins, including original front door. While interior's architecture can't be termed elegant, there's a sort of studied informality with furnishings from all-over-creation, little here—little there. (Even luncheonette counter—where one can order "fresh" fruit juice—hailed from Bayonne, N. J., reincarnated from candy store.)

But Merians is unique as restaurant proprietor . . . he doesn't own a can opener. Everything is strictly fresh, grown without dangers of chemical fertilizers, poison sprays, preservatives or other harmful ingredients. The food's not tampered with by man and if feed was any "fresher," it'd get arrested! If it makes him trudge to New York several times a week to get his produce, Merians feels it's worth the toil to give his customers "the best" in health-producing victuals.

Luncheon menu offers cheese blintzes, noodles and cheese, homemade chili, vegetable lentil soup, fish 'n chips. Sandwiches run gamut from egg salad to bagel, lox and cream cheese. Just "Things" include baked apple with whipped cream; large fruit salad; yogurt with honey, nuts, currants; rice pudding with whipped cream; bananas with sour cream. If you're famished but short-of-cash, there's nourishing hot soup and black bread for 75c.

Dinners are something else again. Entrees: Mexican Chicken, corn casserole; Stuffed Meatloaf with country gravy; Rice and Kasha with onion sauce; Lamb Shish Kebob on brown rice; Oriental Beef Balls; Shrimp Scampi broiled in lemon garlic butter; Baked Stuffed Salmon; Broiled Filet of Flounder with bread crumbs and parmesan; Shrimp with Chinese-style lobster sauce.

A la carte prices start at $2; dinners, $2.90. Top prices range $4-$5 on dinners; $3.25-$4, a la carte. Entrees served with salad (Italian herb, green goddess or Roquefort dressing); mint salad with sesame oil; sliced cucumber with octopus; Japanese ravioli.

Appetizers list eggplant caviar; bean sprout salad; chicken-peas in sesame butter; chopped chicken liver pate. Soup: barley-pea; Polish cabbage; mushroom and barley; avocado; red soy-bean with seaweed. Homemade desserts: Happy New Year cheese cake; "Magic Mommy"; melon boats . . . topped with Mu tea.

Like Caesar's wife, health-food trade must be beyond suspicion. But before saying verboten, nix, nada, and "forget it," for sanity's sake, it might be worthwhile to drive to Woodstock and give organic food a try. You'll scrape the bottom of your bowl . . . Chow !!

New Face for Emmy

NEW YORK (UPI) —The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has a new approach to the broadcast of its annual Emmy Awards. The video program will be cut to 90 minutes, on-the-air presentation of awards will be limited to performers and programs, and the air show will come only from Hollywood instead of being split between that place and New York City. There will, however, be a special Emmy Awards telecast originating in New York that will be devoted exclusively to news and public affairs programs.

MOVIES

C. C. & Company

It had to happen. With movie makers only too well aware that "Easy Rider" made a mint at the box-office while multi-million-dollar filmed Broadway musicals were bombing badly, it was inevitable.

We're talking about "C. C. & Company," the current attraction at Kingston's Community. Like "Easy Rider," it's the story of a freedom-loving, free-spirit who takes to the open road in search of self. And what better man to play the part than that man who is known on all continents as his own man — Broadway Joe Namath.

Actually, we should disqualify ourselves from sitting in critical judgment on this one. An avid Namath fan, it's impossible for us to come up with a knock as far as the N.Y. Jets quarterback, the superstar of the Super Bowl, and the total individualistic Namath is concerned.

All That Charm

So maybe you've got a point when you say he's no great shakes as an actor. When we want acting, we get ourselves off to a George C. Scott or Sir Ralph Richardson film. When we want charm, we'll happily and dazedly settle for Namath, who's got so much in that category going for him (in this female's opinion) that he could peel the paint right off a wall.

"C. C. & Company" will never win an Oscar — but we wouldn't have missed it for anything less than a seat on the bench next to Joe at Shea Stadium. It gives us Joe Willie, not as a football player, but a Hells Angel-type motorcyclist, who eventually becomes disillusioned with his roaring, brawling gang. Even when he's redeemed by the love of a high-fashion writer, played by gorgeous Ann-Margret, we believed. In fact, we'd believe Jackie Onassis or Princess Margaret or Raquel Welch or Sophia Loren.

Even so, we prefer him in full uniform (double knee pads and all) to nude and, for those of you who have wondered, there is a nude scene for the normally bell-bottomed, booted Joe Willie and the more often clothed than not Ann-Margret.

The Bird With The Crystal Plume

We must also confess that along with Joe Namath, butter crunch ice cream and lazy summer days, we are prone to thriller-chiller detective stories and suspenseful murder mysteries. And it matters little whether the thrills and chills are major or minor.

So, while "The Bird With The Crystal Plume," the current attraction at Kingston's Mayfair and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In, is not exactly on a par with "Psycho" or "Rider on the Rain," there's enough in this tale of a demented killer who goes after beautiful maidens to keep us happy.

With Tony Musante, Suzy Kendall and Eva Renzi starring, it has enough scary bits to raise the chill bumps, if you're not too easily turned off by a little gore and some perversion. It may not be Hitchcock, but there's a fair share of suspense in this "Jack-the-Ripper" type story with a twist.

Women in Love

JOE NAMATH, the Cinderella quarterback of the N.Y. Jets, puts his best pair of boots forward in publicity still with Ann-Margret for "C. C. and Company." The film, about a man who's his own man, is Namath's first starring role off the pass and punt field. It's the current attraction at Kingston's Community Theater.

MOVIES

cast and nude scenes (but these so exquisitely done they seem to have been painted on the screen by an artist's brush) highlight this movie at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema.

It's a stunningly realistic film version of the much-publicized novel by D. H. Lawrence about emotional involvement on all levels between two men and two women. The film does honor to Lawrence's talent, to its producer and director, to the greatness of its stars (Alan Bates, Oliver Reed and Glenda Jackson), and to its audience.

So superlative is the cast that one takes the nudity in stride as a necessary part of the story and, even more, as a totally artistic contribution.

Patton

George C. Scott as Patton gives one of the great performances of all time in a penetrating character study of "the perfect warrior" of World War II. Back for a rerun at the local 9-W Drive-In, "Patton" is a film that bristles with battlefield action and enough suspense to put it head and shoulders above the typically traditional war film.

Gone With the Wind

The Hyde Park Drive-In is offering "Gone With the Wind," reissued in Metrocolor for new wide-screen presentation. An all-time-great motion picture, "Wind" was a publishing phenomenon even before it was made into a film. Half a year after its publication, it had sold a million copies, a fact that guaranteed the success of the spectacular movie version starring Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Leslie Howard and Olivia de Havilland.

Indeed, this memorable love story set against a flaming backdrop of the Civil War and starring a cast of thousands, is one film that most Americans have seen time and time again. A totally magnificent picture, it won 10 Academy Awards; still looms above other films made since for its scope and spectacle.

Fellini Satyricon

If it's Fellini, it's always worth seeing. Even if you don't understand you have to be impressed with the spectacle and the often weird events emphasized by the famed Italian director.

"Satyricon," now playing at the Academy Theatre in New Paltz, is especially strong on spectacle. But since it's the tale of two young men footloose and feckless in pagan Rome, that's to be expected. More to the point, however, is the fact that Fellini has reworded the classic story of Petronius to further enlarge the themes he has highlighted throughout his controversial career. And his message about civilization and savagery, beauty and decay is as applicable today as it must have been in the free-wheeling Rome of antiquity.

A Walk in The Spring Rain

At the Rosendale Theatre currently is this made-for-the-romantic-who-has-long-since-passed-the-age-of-30 film. It stars Anthony Quinn as a Tennessee man of the mountains who becomes involved with a professor's wife (Ingrid Bergman), who's vacationing in the Great Smokies.

It might have some appeal for some women, but this female reviewer found it slightly ridiculous and a little embarrassing. It was difficult for us to envision Zorba the Greek mooning over Anastasia.

Getting Straight

Elliott Gould's fine performance as a graduate student who has returned to his campus after a stint in Vietnam makes this film at Red Hook's Lyceum well worth seeing.

In spite of the fact that it's aimed mostly at a youthful audience and its plot centers around campus revolt, it has something to say to the older generation. Gould makes what it has to say worthy of consideration.

There is some fine, wry humor on display — along with the best riot scenes ever filmed. And, to some extent, it leads to a basic understanding of why young people today have lined up with the Weathermen or the Birchers.

Dr. Zhivago

"Spectacle" seems to be a word we've used often in this week's reviewing stint. Still, we have little choice but to use it again in reference to this fine film, now back for a rerun at the Orpheum in Saugerties.

Based on the prize-winning Boris Pasternak novel, it stars Omar Sharif and Geraldine Chaplin in another memorable love story set against yet another war. Since that war is the Russian Revolution, spectacle there must be and spectacle there is.

Like "Gone With the Wind" before it, "Zhivago" offers an unforgettable romance and scenes of vast grandeur, substituting the snowy steppes for the lush picturesque South. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)
